By Lisa A. Boudreau

Teachers voted Wednesday morning to accept a contract with an 18.5 percent increase divided over three years. The contract will cost the town $48,000 more in the first two years than the offer the School Committee made two weeks ago.

The numbers, including longevity, an incentive pool and a career-leave plan, were ironed out at a negotiation session between the teachers and the School Committee Tuesday night that lasted well into the early hours Wednesday. Teachers had said if the two sides didn't come to an agreement they would strike.

"Both sides can really feel good about this agreement," said Steve Jankauskas, the teachers' spokesman.

"We came to a salary agreement that keeps us competitive with communities we compare ourselves to and that does so within the School Committee's budget," he said.

Margo Tilghman, School Committee chairwoman, said the offer lives within the School Committee's budget because the actual dollar amounts paid over three years total less than 18.5 percent in flat salary increases.

"The three-year contract relieves the tension that was present around the two-year contract," Mrs. Tilghman said, and added she's pleased the contract will be in place when a new superintendent ar-

Five seek school board seat

Three more people have announced bids for the School Committee seat that will be vacated by outgoing Chairwoman Margo Tilghman following the March 26 town elections. That means a total of five are running so far.

Dr. Christopher Outwin, Debra Silberstein and Antonio Mendoza join Joe Frio and John Mercier, the latter two having announced previously.

Christopher Outwin, 4 Highvale Ave., who has a doctorate in education, made an unsuccessful bid for a School Committee seat last year. He and his family have lived in Andover for six years. Dr. Outwin and his wife, Glenna, have three children, a third-grader and first-grader, both at South Elementary School, and an 18-month-old son.

Dr. Outwin is an assistant professor of mass communications at Emerson College in Boston. He has taught at the college level since 1981. He is a member of South School's PTO and is the group's liaison to the School Committee. He was also a member of the townwide school building needs task force, appointed by the School Committee.

He said his familiarity with issues facing the School Committee, such as state aid cuts, choosing a new superintendent and school building and space needs, will enable him to work well with the committee.

Mrs. Silberstein, of 28 Burton Farm Road, is a lawyer in Salem. She has lived

Town Meeting is Monday

By Don Staruk

Residents will be asked to vote on changes to the fiscal 1990 town budget Monday at a Special Town Meeting, 7 p.m. at the J. Everett Collins Center on Shawsheen Road.

Voters will face four warrant articles, all related to finance and budget issues, which require immediate action. The regular Town Meeting dealing with approximately 70 additional warrant articles is scheduled for mid-June.

Monday's meeting actually will open at the Memorial Auditorium on Bartlet Street at 7 p.m., but immediately will be moved to the Collins Center, according to Town Moderator James Doherty. The meeting has to be convened first at the auditorium because that is how it was advertised.

The actions that can be taken at town meeting are very limited and, although people can talk all they want, only the warrant articles can be voted on, according to the moderator.

"We have a Town Meeting Monday night to act upon four articles in a special warrant," Mr. Doherty said. "I can't allow anything else to be voted."

Meter man: The one you love to hate

By Don Staruk

"There's an injustice going on in town," says Stephen Prochniak, of 24 Kathleen Drive, in a telephone call to the Townsman last week.

He explains that about 1 p.m. last Wednesday he stopped by the Andover Spa, 9 Elm St., to buy a package of gum. He double parked, went in for "15 seconds," and came out to find David Cantone, Andover's traffic supervisor, writing a ticket.

"I was in violation," Mr. Prochniak says. "I talked to the guy. I lost my temper a little bit. He said, 'You are double parked.' I thought he was going to forget it (writing the ticket). I started to walk away. He said, 'Where do you think you're going?'"

"He seemed to take great joy in other people's misery. I got a little bit insolent, I admit."

Tax rate stays different for residents, businesses

By Don Staruk

The Board of Selectmen Monday night voted to keep the 15 percent tax classification shift, which puts a greater portion of the town's tax burden on commercial and industrial property owners and less of a burden on residential property owners.

The tax rate for this year, with the 15 percent shift and if the levy is set at the absolute

Library to show Mother Teresa film

Memorial Hall Library lists the following events:

The award-winning film on Mother Teresa, shot over five years in 10 countries, will be shown in Memorial Hall on Friday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m. The film follows Mother Teresa into the world's most troubled spots and shows how she transcends all political, religious and social barriers.

"Courageous Voices Echoing in our Lives" is the theme of Women's History Month, March. The theme signifies the presence of women in the past, present and future and the commitment to revere and use the past to shape the future.

Women's History Month serves as an impetus to celebrate women's history, from local to state and national levels. The library has a display of literature on women in the past and future.

AVIS to meet Tuesday

"An Updated View of the Wildflowers Along the AVIS Trails" will be the topic for the Andover Village Improvement Society's annual meeting on Tuesday, March 13, at the North Andover Country Club in the evening. Reservations are required. Call Rachel Garcia.

John A. Gould, a faculty member at Phillips Academy, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Gould is an author, photographer and lecturer. His articles have appeared in Yankee and Down East magazines.

Joy Waldman of Cambridge is artist of the month. She has degrees from the University of Massachusetts, University of Hartford and Boston University. She has studied watercolor and taught art for many years.

Ms. Waldman's floral images, sunny gardens and landscapes are known for their vibrant color and lyric style. Her bold, yet sensitive watercolors celebrate the beauty in nature, the spontaneous joy fresh flowers evoke, the universal appeal of summer in bloom or spring unfolding.

Ms. Waldman is a member of the Copley Society of Boston and has participated in group and solo shows. Her original watercolors and commissioned works are represented internationally in private collections.

NEWS IN BRIEF

League has acting head

Elaine Smith, of 10 Germano Way, was named acting president of the Andover League of Women Voters by the group's board of directors Wednesday, Feb. 28.

Mrs. Smith will fill the unexpired term of former league president, Ruth Scarbeau, until the league's annual meeting May 23, when a new president will be elected.

Mrs. Scarbeau resigned Tuesday, Feb. 20, to run for a School Committee seat. She later withdrew her name, saying she had re-evaluated her time commitments, that included helping her husband run a printing business in Lawrence.

Mrs. Smith will retain her position as league education chairwoman. She has been a member of the league since 1972 and a member of the Andover League since 1984, when she moved here from Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Smith's husband is William. They have two children. She is a teacher at Christ Church Children's Center.

League plans two events on candidates

The League of Women Voters will sponsor two events to help voters become informed about the candidates who are running in the March 26 town election.

Elaine Smith, acting president of the league, said the group will sponsor a coffee for the candidates on Saturday, March 10, from 9 a.m. to noon, at Andover Savings Bank, Main Street.

On Thursday, March 15, the candidates have been invited to a debate sponsored by the league. It will be aired on TV Channel 11 at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to the television studio at the high school to participate by having audience questions. Those planning to be part of the audience need to be in place by 7:15 p.m.

Two candidates are running for the Board of Selectmen, incumbent William Downs and Susan O'Neill. Two people are running for town moderator, incumbent James Doherty and John Doyle. Three people have announced they are running for the one seat on the School Committee: Joe Frio, John Mercier and Christopher Outwin. One candidate, John P. Hess, is running unopposed for Housing Authority.

The three candidates for the School Committee are running on a write-in campaign because they didn't announce early enough to be placed on the ballot. Voters will either have to write in the name of their choice, or they will have to affix a sticker in the proper space on the ballot. The Townsman will publish more on the write-in process in next week's edition.

2 businesses are closing

By Don Staruk

March started off with two more downtown businesses announcing they will close by the end of the month.

Limited Editions

Limited Editions, a gift store at 93 Main St., will close its doors March 31, according to an employee at the store. Most of the merchandise has already been moved to a sister store in Woodstock, Vt.

A hike in the rent was the reason for leaving, according to the employee.

Elephant's Trunk

The Elephant's Trunk Inc., at 13 Main St., is also calling it quits. The establishment, a women's clothing store, will consolidate its operations back into its main store in Newburyport by the end of the month, according to an employee.

High overhead is the reason the employee gave for the store's leaving Andover.

Claudia Harris, owner of the two stores, would not discuss the move when contacted by telephone Monday. Just six weeks ago Ms. Harris denied rumors that the store would close.

Tyer building proposal

The former Tyer Rubber building on Railroad Street may be converted to retail shops and office space as soon as this fall, according to a developer for the property.

Rich Rubino, of Rubino Development Co. of North Andover, said there is a proposal to develop the building into an upscale apparel center.

"It would be a joint venture with the Stern company," Mr. Rubino said.

The Stern Company is owned by George Stern of North Andover. Mr. Rubino lives in Andover.

The building has 46,000 square feet of space, according to Mr. Rubino. It has parking for 180 cars.

Mr. Rubino was hesitant to name prospective clients, he said, since nothing has been finalized yet.

State closes The Pub

By Don Staruk

ness as The Pub at 40 Park St., re-opened for business Friday after being shut down by the Massachusetts Department of Revenue last week for non-payment of taxes.

Four agents, along with a state policeman and a locksmith, seized The Pub at 11:15 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 28, according to a DOR director of communications.

"They were closed down because they owe the commonwealth over $6,400 in withholding taxes," Betsy Houghteling, the director, said Feb. 28.

In addition to the $6,400 on the books, the establishment failed to file reports for more than 80 tax periods, dating back as far as July of 1980, according to the spokeswoman. The taxes, some of which need to be filed monthly, include meals tax, withholding tax and corporate excise tax.

The president and owner of the establishment is Georgina Lane, of 13 Bartlet St. Ms. Lane said last week that this was the second time in two weeks she had been shut down for non-payment of taxes.

The bar was only closed for an hour the first time, until she paid the bill, Ms. Lane said.

"That was another tax," the owner said. "That's what they (the DOR staff) do when they owe back taxes in liquor places."

The liquor license for the establishment also was seized, according to Ms. Houghteling.

"In her liquor application filed in November, 1989, she filed that she was current with taxes," Ms. Houghteling said of Ms. Lane.

Acting Town Manager Anthony Torrisi said he did not think the selectmen, as the town's licensing commissioners, would take any action against the establishment for the discrepancy on the license application.

"Their concern is for public safety," Mr. Torrisi said.

The DOR does not like to shut down businesses, and made every effort to resolve the debt with Ms. Lane, according to Ms. Houghteling.

"When all else fails, the only choice the commonwealth has is going in and closing her down," she said.

"They've entered into a payment agreement with the department," Ms. Houghteling said Monday.

The Andover Grill has been incorporated since 1957. Ms. Lane owns the building where the bar is located. Other businesses in the building are Domino's Pizza, Calcina's Color Center paint store, Lane's End candy store and the Andover Clean Craft laundry.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

Your due date is rapidly approaching and you are trying desperately to get organized and think of everything that has to be done. Getting all your affairs in order before a new baby's birth is common and of top priority. It's a good idea to prepare a complete list of everyone who should be getting a call with the good news. You certainly would not want to overlook any friend or relative. Go through your address book and jot down the names of those you want to notify when your baby is born. You can also use this as a check list for gifts, thank-you cards and even birth announcements. By doing this, you will not miss anyone who needs to know of the exciting event.

You will find all of your baby needs in stock at TIMY TOTLAND. Simmons, Childcraft, Bassett & Morigeaux are available. Lay-a-way plan at no additional charge. Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9. # TOWNTALK

Ester Russem is celebrating her 100th birthday Saturday, March 10, at Prescott House Nursing Home, 140 Prescott St., North Andover, where she's lived since 1984. Of course Andover residents know Mrs. Russem best as the helpful and kind saleswoman at Russem's department store in Andover, which she and her husband, the late Benjamin Russem, owned and operated. She's also the mother of Jerry Russem, who just retired from running the store, and Theodore Russem, also of Andover, and of Norma Cohen, of New Hampshire and Florida.

Jerry Russem told us his mother also is well known with his father as two of the founding members of Temple Emanuel, which began in Lawrence and later moved to Andover. She was commended during World War II for her work with the Red Cross.

Festivities Saturday for Mrs. Russem include a buffet for about 40 family members, from 2:30 to 4:30. She will receive a card from President George Bush, as well as cards and messages from other celebrities. She also will receive roses, but don't tip her off.

Harold Tynning, of 221 Beacon St., came into the Townsman office last week with a press release about Saturday's corned beef and cabbage dinner, sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 74 at Andover Baptist Church. He's the chef for the dinner and he expects to feed as many as 250 people at two sittings, one at 5 p.m. and the second at 6:30 p.m.

"I can feed 250," he said, with a trace of an Irish accent. "That's 150 pounds of corned beef."

Although Mr. Tynning likes all the food at the dinner, what he looks forward to the most is the Irish soda bread, which he makes himself. He expects to cook about 200 loaves of the bread, which is not baked in the oven but in a skillet on top of the stove.

Mr. Tynning was born in North Andover and his wife, Priscilla, was born in Andover, but her mother traveled back and forth to Ireland quite a bit, reported Mr. Tynning. We remarked on his Irish accent, and Mr. Tynning said every year at this time his accent picks right up.

A few years ago when he was on a trip to Ireland, Mrs. Tynning's cousin made Irish soda bread for them and gave Mr. Tynning the recipe. "It's the real thing," he said, and added that it will take three to four hours to make 200 loaves for the dinner.

Beverly Darling, of 18 Alden Road, recently won an award for sculpture at a juried exhibit for painting and sculpture at the Concord Art Association in Concord, Mass. We've heard that that's one of the best juried exhibits to get into and we know that there were more than 100 paintings and 15 pieces of sculpture in the exhibit.

Mrs. Darling's sculpture, which she calls "Mr. Ugly" (and she laughs when she says that), is an imaginative head that she did in soapstone. Last year she completed 20 portraits of people in sculpture and this year she's done 15 so far. Many are eight-inch busts of children.

It's always embarrassing when we make a mistake in the paper, and we're grateful when we're told about it, especially by someone who understands. Cathleen Burns Elmer, of 2 Chestnut St., sent us our back page from last week's paper with the mistake circled. We had Joanne Marden, chairwoman of the Finance Committee, about whom we carry (Continued on page seven)

"Let Us Show You What Kitchen Shopping Should Be Like."

Stroll through 40 complete kitchens. All sizes and styles and colors. Relax. Have some coffee with a kitchen designer in the kitchens you like most — just to get a "feel" for what they'll be like in your home. And don't worry about installation. Somebody takes care of that for you. That's a taste of kitchen shopping at Kitchen Sales.

At Kitchen Sales, we know that a new kitchen is much more than cabinets and countertops. It's the heart of your home. And it just can't be loaded into a shopping cart and brought home in the back of a van. Come to Kitchen Sales — and find out what kitchen shopping should be like.

Camile Peters, 2 Wild Rose Drive, recently completed her first album of contemporary Christian music songs and is already back in the studio recording more music. Ms. Peters, co-owner of Clara music Studios in Methuen, fits her new recording career into an already busy schedule of teaching piano, organ and voice lessons and being a mother.

She said her album, "Living Hope," was conceived as a gift to her two children, Eric, a senior at Bently College, and Christen, a sophomore at Presentation of Mary Academy, Methuen.

We met lifelong resident May Shorten Bell, 71, of 41 Elm St., loading groceries into her 1957 Ford Mileage-Maker-6 on Sunday afternoon. Her 33-year-old, black and white Ford has only 33,000 miles on it, that's just 1,000 miles a year since she bought it new right here in town. She has put three clutches in it over the years. By the way, her photo appears on the Second Front Page in today's Townsman.

Making headway in saving the environment

By Virginia Cole

It seems these days that we are all bombarded with talk of the environment and of course we are all for the environment; it is something like motherhood and apple pie. You just can't be against it. But at the same time how can you be for it, or what can you as an individual do to make any difference? So today I'm going to try to break down this huge amorphous concept and try to show what you can do as an individual to make an impression.

In order to do this, I'm dividing the subject into three parts. We will start with the part of the environment that we would like to save. And because all of this exercise will of course involve recycling, we will take examples that can be recycled. Metal is easy

So we will start with a scarce metal, aluminum. This one is easy for all of us living in a state where there is a Bottle Bill. All we have to do with our aluminum cans is take them back to the grocery store and get our money back. The aluminum companies will recycle, re-use this material. They are anxious to get all they can.

Save oil

The next thing to try to save is energy, which in general around here means oil. We can't recycle old oil but we can save a great deal of it from being used by recycling glass. Glass is made from sand and no one is trying to tell you we are running out of sand. But to convert sand to glass takes a great deal of heat (oil), where making glass from old glass takes a great deal less. Therefore, recycle glass and save another part of your environment.

In Andover, our glass goes to a plant that does use it to make new glass and we know it is recycled.

The forests

The third part of our environment that each of us understands easily is forests. Besides providing lumber for many uses, forests are needed for their effect on air pollution, as a habitat for wildlife, places for recreation and beauty. We do not want them destroyed.

On the other hand, we have all heard how far-seeing the lumber companies are; how they replant and cut carefully and really "farm" the lands under their control. But I must tell you that we are using up 500,000 trees to make enough newsprint to produce all the Sunday newspapers in the United States each week.

Research shows now that newsprint, which is the largest user of pulp from our forests, can be made very successfully with 50 percent recycled fibers. That could mean cutting down half the forests we do now. That must be worth your recycling your newspaper.

The environment

Now to the next part of the environment that we need to concern ourselves with personally: clean environment. Land pollution, water pollution and air pollution have to be controlled. In Andover we made a great step forward when the state closed our landfill. This both helped with land pollution and litter and with water pollution.

The Andover dump had been there for a long time and Andover had had industries that used chemicals. These chemicals that were not needed, products of them, were just taken to the town dump and thrown over the side.

Where is a dump started? In a gully, of course, a place that looks easy to use. And what is in the bottom of a gully? A stream; and where does that stream go? In Andover, it was decided by the state that it probably went to another stream that eventually went to Haggetts Pond, and to further seal it so that water (rain) could not run through it and when the vats of chemicals down there finally burst their seams, they would not leak into the water supply. The dump is sealed, it is not used and it is monitored by the town regularly and so far, no leachate has left the premises to pollute our water.

When the town could not find another site for a dump, the decision had to be made to ship our trash out of town. To many people, this was really an amoral thing to do. For a town like Andover, with many empty square miles, to send our trash to someone else's town to pollute their land and water just did not seem right. But there was nothing else to do.

The town meeting would not agree to any other site. An article had to be prepared to vote to collect trash curbside and to find a place outside of town and actually for a time, outside of state, to take Andover's trash. At the same time, a group that was already interested in recycling asked that another article be prepared asking that recyclables be picked up curbside too. Both passed and so the recycling age in Andover began.

Air pollution

Air pollution is where we are now. We did eventually get an incinerator to burn our trash and thought all our problems were solved. And when it was designed, at least 10 years ago, it was a state-of-the-art incinerator.

But now after using it less than six years, there are new needs for equipment to keep the dioxins from going up the chimney and polluting the air. More plastic is being burned and that is made from oil and that means chemicals going into our air. So here I am again: Recycle plastic and keep it out of that burn stream.

What's it cost?

Cost is the next thing that each of us can understand. The solid waste budget in the town of Andover is more than $1.5 million. A third of that goes to pick up the trash and take it to North Andover to be burned. The recycling costs $60,000 and most of the rest to pay for the $64-per-ton tipping fee to have the trash burned. Last year recycling saved $45,000 in Andover.

So each of us can have an effect on the environment by recycling. Forests can be saved by recycling newspapers, oil can be saved by recycling glass, pollution can be prevented or lessened by recycling plastic. Costs can be cut by each thing we recycle.

And you, individually, will help to save and keep clean your environment, for you and for your children.

Recycling oil

Andover Health Director Everett Penney has announced that the waste oil recycling tank is open for business for the spring season.

Opening the tank is part of a combined effort of the towns of Andover and North Andover to consolidate recycling and hazardous waste disposal services. The collector tank is located behind the fire station at 125 Main St., North Andover.

Andover and North Andover residents can bring their oil there on the second Wednesday of each month from 4 to 7 p.m. and the second Saturday of each month from 9 a.m. to noon. There is a dumping charge of 50 cents per gallon, with a minimum charge of 50 cents. Mr. Penney said up to 10 gallons of oil can be dumped at once.

March dates are the 10 and 14; April's collection is scheduled for the 11 and 14.

Here's help for seniors

By Mary A. Byrne

The Vial of Life is a program that makes lifesaving medical information available to emergency workers.

The vial is a plastic cylinder containing a medical information form for each elderly member of a household. The form lists important medical information that the EMT or paramedic can use to identify individuals unable to communicate due to injury or illness. The vial is kept on the rack section of the refrigerator door and a magnetic label will be affixed to the outside of the refrigerator door to indicate participation in the program. Vial of Life is designed for elderly, disabled or other medically-at-risk persons who may require unexpected emergency medical care.

The purpose of the program is two-fold. It is designed to help identify seniors in Andover who may be at risk and could use help in some outreach, whether it be Meals on Wheels, Lifeguard, financial intervention (SSI, Medicaid, fuel assistance, etc.). The program is also designed to help healthy and at-risk seniors in unexpected emergency situations. There is no charge for this program. It is just a precautionary measure to avoid potential life-threatening emergencies.

Elizabeth Leed will do the outreach. Seniors interested in being part of the program should contact the Andover Senior Center at 470-3830.

Olivia Scilepp will coordinate volunteers. Those interested in helping seniors fill out the forms should also call 470-3830.

Participants may pick up the Vial of Life packet at the senior center.

Two unusual AVIS treasures are close by

By Marta Hornidge

Not far from the center of Andover are two unusual AVIS treasures, the Skug River and Hammond reservations. Located several miles east from Phillips Academy along Salem Street, they occupy 56 acres. Both follow the historic but secluded and little known Skug River, the Hammond on the north side of Salem Street and the Skug on the south.

A small parking space marks the entrance to the Skug. Soon you will be walking on an extensive boardwalkway spanning marshy land. This sturdy bridge was completed by the AVIS crew just last year and makes possible this convenient entrance to the property.

The well-marked trail no longer follows along the meandering river, but goes up a gentle wooded hill and down again until you reach the boundary of AVIS property. Fortunately, Harold Parker State Forest abuts this property line, so the trail can continue on this public land until you reach a landmark, an enormous single boulder, a stone monolith looking quite incongruous in these woods. Climbers practice elementary climbing techniques on this mammoth-size glacial remnant.

Heaps of huge rocks spread over a large area are soon evident. A short distance further you will cross the river on a bridge built by people living nearby who wanted a dry crossing over the Skug.

Here is our first view of the Skug, fairly boiling along on snow melting days, creating an impressive water falls where a dam once existed. A century and a half ago there was a profitable sawmill and corn grinding business here using water power to drive a great mill wheel. The wooded areas we passed were once farmers' fields and where better to grind your corn than in your own backyard.

William Jenkins inherited the land and sawmill and expanded his fortune by quarrying soapstone. The massive outcroppings of wedged rock you noticed as you approached the bridge are remnants of this enterprise. The stone, softest of all rocks, is easy to cut without injuring an edge tool and its use ranges from building stone and tombstones to small carved blocks, which after being heated provided warmth to Sabbath-day attenders.

Mr. Jenkins is equally renowned for his abolitionist stand. His home on Jenkins Road was a station for the Underground Railroad. I like to think of Andover as a harbor, a way station for the terrified escaped slaves on their journey to freedom in Canada and picture them hiding in the woods surrounding the Skug River until they safely entered the Jenkins' home.

The trail re-enters AVIS land a mile or so later, leading back to the river. Some years ago the CETA crew, under the direction of the Baileys, former wardens who worked arduously building trails, constructed boardwalks and a gracefully arched bridge, but these structures are washed out and a new concrete supported bridge has been built by the current warden and his crew.

A short distance further you will recognize your starting place and the complete circle in this historic, picturesque property has been made.

An interesting addition to this walk starts across Salem Street and follows another section of the Skug. The Hammond Reservation is named in honor of a former AVIS president, Edward E. Hammond, and came about through a posthumous gift made by his son, Edward E. Hammond Jr.

A circular trail winds along an ancient dike of stone and earth crossing the marsh using Andover Conservation Commission land and AVIS property. An old walkway of tires and boards is now rotted, making the trail difficult in wet weather, but AVIS plans to build a new boardwalk in the near future.

The trail ends again on Salem Street. Combining the walk through Skug and Hammond reservations is an annual event by Appalachian Mountain Club leaders, usually in the autumn to celebrate the foliage.

Richard D. Hornidge Sr., is the warden of these properties. AVIS maps of Andover, which include trail maps of the major reservations, are available for a nominal charge at Memorial Hall Library, Moor and Mountain and the town offices.

Again, I am grateful for information taken from "AVIS, A History in Conservation" by Juliet H. Mofford.

FIT TO BE HANGED

Nearly every home has a number of pictures hanging on its walls. For all the popularity of picture groupings, however, very few people hang pictures correctly. For instance, many pictures are hung above eye level even though eye level or below is the height from which most pictures are viewed. In fact, if a picture is viewed mostly from seat level, it should be hung at that height. As for groupings, they should feature a variety of shapes and not be hung too closely together or too far apart. The distance between two pictures should not exceed the width of any single picture. A picture grouping should be thought of as a single unit. All elements should be balanced within its borders, and the entire grouping should be balanced with the furniture of the room.

NOTE: Try using a one-inch spacer to hang a picture away from the wall for a three-dimensional look.

SCHOOLS

Flannery family sets scholarship for son

As a tribute to the spirit and actions by which Thomas J. Flannery lived, his family has established a memorial scholarship fund.

Mr. Flannery, the youngest son of Robert and Margery Flannery of 8 Beacon St., died suddenly in late January at the age of 30. According to his friends and family, he personified the spirit of generosity and giving.

"He was a caring and sensitive person," said his brother, Brian. "His actions speak for themselves."

While a student at Andover High School, he helped start the women's soccer program as a response to what he saw as unfair treatment of the female students and became the team's coach. The team continues to grow and was ranked nationally last fall.

As a varsity soccer player at the high school, "He was well liked by all his teammates and he was always giving it everything he had," said David Amundsen, his varsity soccer coach.

His willingness to give 100 percent appears to have extended beyond his high school years. Friends describe him as someone who "always put others first; he'd do whatever he could to help you." The list of his good deeds range from playing Santa Claus every year for all his friends' children to babysitting on Super Bowl Sunday.

An avid hunter and outdoorsman, Mr. Flannery was a founding member and chairman of the Shawsheen chapter of Ducks Unlimited, an international wetlands conservation organization. He was also a member of the North American Underwater Instructors and a certified scuba diver.

Born in Waltham, he moved to Andover as a youngster. He attended St. Augustine's School and graduated from Andover High. A graduate of the Maine Police Academy and Northern Essex Community College, he attended the University of Lowell.

At the time of his death he lived with his parents and was the director of sales and marketing at the Hilton at Merrimack, N.H.

"Through the memorial fund we'd like to keep the memory of Tommy alive by helping others as he has always done," explained his father.

Donations may be sent to the Tom Flannery Girls' Soccer Memorial Scholarship, Andover Bank, P.O. Box 150, Andover 01810, Attention: Stephanie L. Smith.

Two AFS students are at Andover High

Andover is hosting two foreign exchange students for the year under the auspices of the American Field Service.

Simone Tavenrath of West Germany and Kaisa Koistinen of Finland are high school seniors at Andover High School.

Congressional Representative Chester Atkins poses with AFS foreign exchange student from West Germany, Simone Tavenrath, in his Washington, D.C., office.

Ms. Koistinen, who is living with the Robert Givens family of Woodhaven Drive, is a violinist, who was recently chosen to perform in the High School District Orchestra at Belmont and has been invited to audition for the All-State Orchestra. Ms. Koistinen is a member of the Phillips Academy Orchestra and Chamber Music Group, as well as the All-Town Orchestra.

Ms. Tavenrath is a recipient of the German Congress-Bundestag Scholarship, which encourages "active participation in the democratic process" between Germany and the United States. She was recently invited to take part in a week-long examination of the federal government in action. Ms. Tavenrath was greeted by U.S. Rep. Chet Atkins (D-Mass.) at his Washington office. She is being hosted by the Paul Whitely family of Virginia Road.

AFS is seeking host families for the 1990-91 school year. Families can host students for the year program or for three weeks on the summer program. AFS also operates the teachers' program for educators from China, the Soviet Union, Thailand and Latin America. These programs provide a 10-week to three-month hosting opportunity.

SHED changes its registration date

The SHED program, a kindergarten child care/enrichment program located at the Shawsheen School, is changing its previously announced registration date to Monday, April 23, at 6 p.m. in the Shawsheen School gymnasium.

Acceptance will be on a first-come basis according to school district. People will be seated according to school district as they enter the gym.

Call Sydney Bialo at 470-3556 between 7:30 and 11:30 Monday through Friday, or on Thursdays between 2:30 and 5:30 p.m. with questions.

AHS hits it big with 7 Merit finalists

Andover High's Class of 1990 has accomplished something no other class at the school has before. It is represented in the National Merit Scholarship program by seven senior-class finalists.

The seven seniors, Nicole Belle Isle, Michael Clement, Catherine Doherty, Christopher Klein, Jonathan Owen, Melissa Salazar and Gianpaolo Starita, will have to wait until sometime this month to see if they have been chosen from among the 14,000 finalists from across the country to receive scholarship offers.

He wins at geography

Eighth-grader Oman Khan, son of Dr. and Mrs. Akmal

Khan of Hearthstone Way, is Pike School champion in the National Geography Bee at the Pike School.

Seventh-grader Michael Kim, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Yangkil Kim of North Andover, was first runner-up.

Computerized Tax Preparation with Fastest Possible Refunds

IntelliTax™ is expanding its income tax preparation services with an office at Mail Boxes Etc.™ of North Andover. All tax returns are prepared on computers with the latest tax preparation software to quickly and easily produce error-free returns.

According to the founders (who come from MIT, the IRS, and management of competing tax firms), using computers is more accurate and allows preparers to pay more attention to the client.

The IntelliTax™ system reduces paperwork, speeds the office visit, and cuts the cost of your tax return. With coupon below, a simple federal and state package is $20.

In-home preparation is available by appointment to those who cannot come to the Mail Boxes Etc.™ office. Out-of-state and prior year returns are also completed.

Mail Boxes Etc.™ is offering two new programs to rush your IRS tax refund to you in the fastest possible time. Based on IRS performance averages, you can get your money in as few as 3 days.

Through electronic filing of tax returns, your refund can be directly deposited to your bank account in 2 weeks or sent as a check in 3 weeks. With coupon below, the cost is $34.95.

Taxpayers who file electronically and expect a $300 to $3000 refund may qualify for a Refund Anticipation Loan. In as little as 3 days, your refund (minus a $35 finance charge) will be directly deposited to your bank account.

Your tax refund status, not your credit history, is used to qualify for a Refund Anticipation Loan. Call or stop by for details.

Why do smart kids fail?

Your child may be smarter than his or her grades show. Our certified teachers help children of all ages overcome frustration and failure, and realize their potential.

A few hours a week can help your child improve weak basic skills and regain confidence and motivation.

Our testing pinpoints problems and we tutor in reading, study skills, math, writing, vocabulary, phonics, spelling and grammar to help students in all grades do better in school.

4 Reasons for Failure

- Weak Basic Skills
- Frustration with School
- Lack of Confidence
- No Motivation

Montessori sets fall applications

Applications are now being accepted for the 1990-'91 year at the Andover School of Montessori for children turning 2 years, 9 months by Sept. 1st.

The Montessori education emphasizes each child's individuality by providing a pleasant environment with carefully designed self-corrective materials that meet the child's natural needs. The goal of the program is to provide the child with confidence and independence, and to help develop positive toward learning.

Family night is full of warm fuzzies

Pasta, fun and games, movies and warm fuzzies. . . What more could elementary school students ask for?

All of these are part of "Warm Fuzzy Family Fun Night" Thursday, March 15, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. in the Andover High School cafeteria and Collins Center.

Students in kindergarten through fifth grade and their parents will enjoy a pasta dinner, games, movies, photos with Project CHARLIE characters and a mime show.

Each participant is encouraged to submit a warm fuzzy picture to his or her teacher, showing a specific event where he or she helped someone. These pictures will be on display throughout the evening, and awards will be presented for winning entries.

Members of the Andover High SADD chapter, the Community ASK Team, Peer Counseling and Doherty and West middle schools Kids for Kids program will operate games and booths in the Collins Center. These activities are planned to raise children's self-esteem and bring families together.

Jim Vetter's mime show will conclude the program. The evening promises to provide something for everyone and most importantly, a "warm fuzzy feeling" to take home with you, said health education coordinator Brenda O'Brien.

All kindergarten through fifth-grade students and parents are invited. Tickets are $3 and can be purchased through elementary students' homeroom teachers.

AHS reunion

Andover High School's Class of 1965 is planning its 25th reunion for Saturday, Aug. 11, at Old Town Hall. For further information, contact Ron Kaczynski, Jeri (Haggerty) Marjerson or Kirky (Witman) Clarke.

Young musicians perform Saturday

Several students in Andover in grades seven through nine will take part in the Northeast Massachusetts Junior District Concert, which will be held Saturday, March 10, at Somerville High School.

They are Jillian Lewis, Josh Lewin, Steven Andreadis, Anthony Mendoza, Brendan O'Donahue, James Eckles, Andrew Shea, Jenny Yoon, Edward Chen, Chad Collins, Valarie Gould, Erin Caskey, Rachel Bloom, Mala Bhat-tacharya, Sarah Witman, Sarah Patenaude and Catherine Williamson.

The concert is sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators Association North-eastern District.

The program offers young musicians an enrichment opportunity and provides a musical experience not usually available elsewhere. Outstanding students from more than 80 public and private schools participated in the auditions.

Chamber series continues Friday

During this academic school year the Andover Historical Society and Phillips Academy music department have collaborated on concerts of chamber music at the recently renovated Old Town Hall on Main Street.

This series will continue with a program of Beethoven and Debussy on Friday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m. featuring the Essex String Quartet, the faculty quartet at Phillips Academy. The concert will include String Quartet in C Major, Op. 59, No. 3 by Ludwig van Beethoven and String Quartet by Claude Debussy.

Because of their technical demands and soloistic treatment of all the instruments, the Opus 59 String Quartets of Beethoven have been described as "concerto quartets." Some writers, more impressed by their structure and design and orchestral sonorities, have called them "Symphony Quartets." Both designations are understand-

Juniors to play 'The Sound of Music' here

This weekend 45 members of the Merrimack Junior Theatre Company will fill the stage at Doherty Middle School with "The Sound of Music." The MJT production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, based on the escape of the von Trapp family singers from Nazi-occupied Austria, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 9 and 10, and 3 p.m. Sunday, March 11.

Tickets cost $6 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens. They may be purchased at the door or in advance from Andover Department of Community Services, Andover/North Andover YMCA and Andover Books and Prints at 68 Park St.

The play is directed by Josie Walker and Linda Zimmerman and features a cast of sixth-through ninth-grade students from area schools. "The Sound of Music" is the fifth production for Merrimack Theatre Company, which was established in 1988.

The Clancy Brothers will perform Friday at the J. Everett Collins Center.

Collins Center to feature Irish sounds this Friday

The Irish sounds of the Clancy Brothers, with Robbie O'Connell, will highlight the St. Patrick's Day celebration at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Friday, March 9, at 8 p.m.

The Northeast Winds, Irish minstrels, will perform during the same program.

The Clancy Brothers are acclaimed as an institution in the Irish entertainment field. Their program consists of songs that relate to the average person — songs of love, life and the human condition.

They make appearances on all major U.S. talk shows. Critics say you don't have to be Irish to like the Clancy Brothers.

Northeast Winds is known throughout New England for traditional Irish favorites, haunting ballads, popular sing-alongs, sea chanties and rousing instrumentals. They frequently perform with the Clancy Brothers and with the Irish Rovers.

Tickets, at $28 and $23, are on sale at the Collins Center box office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Group discounts are available. For more information or to charge tickets, call the Collins Center at 474-9134.

It's corned beef, cabbage for dinner

Boy Scout Troop 74 of the Andover Baptist Church is sponsoring a corned beef and cabbage dinner Saturday, March 10, at the church, 7 Central St., across from Memorial Hall Library.

There will be two sittings, at 5 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m.

In addition to the cabbage, five vegetables will be served. Also served will be homemade Irish soda bread.

Holy Family Hospital to hold dinner dance

Holy Family Hospital invites the public to an evening of dining and dancing at the Andover Marriott on April 27.

Holy Family Hospital welcomes the Brazilian beat direct from New York's Rainbow Room. In addition, a 15-piece swing band will be in place.

The evening recaptures scenes from the 1933 musical "Flying Down to Rio," starring Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers and Dolores Del Rio. Professional dancers will perform and there will be music to suit all tastes. "Satin Doll," "In the Mood" and "String of Pearls" are a few of the selections of the swing orchestra.

Tickets cost $125 per person. Proceeds will benefit the hospital.

The dinner dance is being co-chaired by Diane L. Scully and Richard K. Mallen, both of North Andover, assisted by committee members Clemente Abascal and Anthony F. Lautieri of Lawrence; Thomas S. Barenboim, Ralph A. Crusius, Joseph B. Doherty Jr., Joan T. Faucher, Theresa A. Fenton, Naomi A. Gardner, Ronnie Haarmann, Sanford Kaufman, M.D., Bunny Maren, Frances A. Melia, Alice M. O'Reilly, Dorothy

M. Winn, all of Andover; Henry P.J. Broekhoff of Windham, N.H.; Elaine M. Burke, Viola Giannarakos, Robert A. Henderson, James Kapelson, Robert E. Kellan, M.D., J. Richard Murphy, Joseph R. Rokous, M.D., Olivia Scileppi, Jane C. Walsh, all of North Andover; Alan R. McLennan of Methuen; Laurence J. Palmisano of Salem, N.H.; and Herbert P. Phillips, Esq. of Haverhill.

The event is being coordinated by Clifford E. Elias, foundation chairman, and William L. Lane, president/chief executive officer.

Channel 11 looks at immigrant experience

On cable Channel 11's regular series "Between Takes," meet Pamela Berger, an independent film-maker whose work "The Imported Bridegroom" looks at the turn-of-the-century immigrant experience. Filmed in Cambridge and around the region, the film will premiere in the Boston area this month. On "Between Takes," Ms. Berger shares some clips from her film and stories about completing the production.

Sen. John Kerry continues his series, "Cable Town Meeting," with a panel of mayors and selectmen discussing drugs, the environment and education.

"Health and Home Report," a monthly magazine, contains segments on controlling heart disease, travel scams, the "Child Alert" program and Drs. Ron and Nancy Goor, authors off "The Choose-to-Lose Diet."

Dan Tremblay, Andover health officer, continues his series, "Creating a Healthy Environment," with segments on sedimentation control and walking for health.

Andona Society holds fundraiser

The Andona Society will present the second of its three major annual fundraisers, the Spring Gala, on Tuesday, March 20, at the Andover Sheraton.

The evening will include a social hour, a full-course meal, a fashion show, music and door prizes.

Proceeds will go toward the on-going fundraising of the 38-year-old women's civic organization, which benefits the town of Andover, including youth activities.

Last year, the Andona Society provided two $1,500 scholarships to Andover High School students, as well as a $1,000 scholarship to a graduate of the Greater Lawrence Regional Technical School.

Tickets for the dinner and fashion show are $35 and may be purchased from Susan Bomba, or from Merle Norman Cosmetics, 93 Main St. Tickets will be for sale until March 16, and will not be available at the door.

Chamber series continues

able. Historical perspective has placed the Opus 59 String Quartets in the context of Beethoven's total output as masterworks that express and reflect his "second" or "middle" period style.

The Debussy String Quartet, the only one he ever wrote, was premiered by the Belgian Ysaeye Quartet Dec. 29, 1893, when Debussy was 31 years old. Although there are hints of chromaticism (harmonies based on non-harmonic tones) and regularly repeated melodic sequences, the basic musical language of the "String Quartet" is pure Debussy, said music department faculty members.

Members of the Essex String Quartet are Gerald Itzkoff, violin; Heidi Yenney, guest violin; Catherine Consiglio, viola; and William Thomas, cello.

Mr. Itzkoff is concertmaster of the New Hampshire Symphony and Monadnock Festival orchestras. He began teaching violin and chamber music at Phillips in 1986 and was recently appointed resident music tutor and director of concerts at Dunster House, Harvard University.

As a member of the Riverside String Quartet, he was awarded first prize in the Artists International Competition in New York City in 1981. He served as soloist and concertmaster for the Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra on European and world tours from 1982 to 1984.

Mr. Itzkoff is a member of the Emmanuel Chamber Orchestra, the Handel and Haydn Society and the Griffin New Music Ensemble.

Ms. Yenney received her degrees from New England Conservatory of Music where she studied with Dorothy Delay and Paul Kantor. She is an original member and principal violinist of the New England String Quartet, the resident quartet of University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Ms. Yenney is the principal second violin of the New Hampshire Symphony and Monadnock Festival orchestras and a member of the Emmanuel Chamber Orchestra.

Mrs. Consiglio received her master's degree from New England Conservatory and has been on the faculty of Oklahoma University, Rice University and the University of Connecticut. She has performed in orchestras in the United States and Central America and participated in music festivals abroad. She played solo and chamber recitals in the New England area and has been heard regularly on the Connecticut public radio for the last three years.

Mr. Thomas received his bachelor's degree from Oberlin Conservatory and his master's from Penn State University, studying with Richard Kapuscinski and Pierre Fournier. He has performed in the United States and Europe and is in his 15th year as chairman of the music department at Philips.

The public is invited. The general admission is $5.

Library shows Mother Teresa film

The film to be shown at Memorial Hall Library Friday, March 9, in the continuing Friday Night Film Series is "Mother Teresa," which was shot over five years in 10 countries.

The film follows Mother Teresa into the world's most troubled spots and shows how she transcends all political, religious and social barriers.

The film, which lasts 82 minutes, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Greek folk dancers debut at ULowell

First organized in 1910, the Lyceum Dancers have been performing in Greece and abroad for 80 years. They have been awarded many prizes in international folk dancing competitions, including the Dijon Festival in 1985 and 1988 (Silver Necklace), Susa (1970, first prize), Gorizia (1972, first prize) and the World Folk Dance Festival in Palma di Mallorca in 1989 where they competed with 54 dance groups from 25 countries and were awarded the first prize (international trophy).

Through the thorough research the choreographic staff has been conducting since its establishment, the Lyceum Dancers have a repertory of authentic dances that encompass all regions of Greece. The selection of traditional and authentic musical accompaniment with antique traditional instruments is performed by accomplished musicians.

The costumes are authentic and part of a collection of more than 2,000 that has been carefully restored by the specialized wardrobe staff. The members of the dance group are volunteers and remain with the troupe for several years. The musical, choreographic and wardrobe staff are professionals. Their repertory will include dances from the Peloponnese, the islands, Thrace, Macedonia and Epiros.

Tickets are priced at $15 for general admission with student tickets $10. Tickets are on sale at the University of Lowell Center for the Performing Arts. Call 934-4444. Tickets may also be purchased from the Hellenic Culture Society, P.O. Box 8163, Lowell 01853 or call 454-8993.

Northern Essex to hold casino night

The student activities office at Northern Essex Community College is presenting a double feature, "Night in the Caribbean" and "Casino Night," at its student center on Friday, March 9, from 8 to 11 p.m. Everyone is invited.

Mark Endresen and the Calypso Hurricane will offer calypso music as well as other styles.

A non-alcoholic juice bar will specialize in the drinks of the Caribbean. A $1,000 Bassett Tours gift certificate towards a trip for two to the Caribbean or Mexico will be raffled at the end of the evening.

Raffle tickets can be purchased at the student activities office and at the dance.

Black jack tables, craps and roulette will be the featured attractions for "Casino Night." All proceeds from the games will go to the Student Scholarship Fund.

Admission is $5 per person. Tickets are on sale at the student activities office and continuing education office at Northern Essex Community College.

Photo exhibit

The Northern Essex Community College Gallery will feature photographs of Japan by Shawn Flanagan, a former Northern Essex student, who traveled to the Far East last summer. His photos will be on display through March 28.

The exhibit will include 33 prints, most of them color, taken in Nikko, Kyoto and Tokyo. Subjects range from architectural close-ups of shrines and temples to Japanese teen-agers wearing punk clothing while hanging out in Yoyogi Park in Tokyo listening to rock bands.

A reception will be held in his honor on Sunday, March 18, from 1 to 4 p.m. The public is invited to both events.

The gallery is open from 1 to 5 p.m. every Sunday.

Irish music and dance coming to Lowell

Celebrate Irish Cultural Week with "The Music and Dance of Ireland" on Tuesday, March 13, at 8 p.m. at the Merrimack Repertory Theatre, 50 E. Merrimack St., Lowell. Seamus Connolly, 10-time winner of Ireland's National Fiddle championship, appears with Irish step dancing champion Dierdre Goulding and Irish harpist Kathleen Guilday with Helen Kisiel on piano and Michael Quinlan on flute and tin whistle.

"The Masters of New England Folk Violin" concert series features folk violinists from throughout New England. Future performances are: "The Music and Dance of Cape Breton" with Joe Cormier on April 24; "The Music and Dance of Canada" with Gerry Robichaud and Les Franco-Americans on May 15; and "Music of New England" with Rodney Miller on June 5.

The series is sponsored by the Regatta Festival Committee, Lowell National Historical Park and Merrimack Repertory Theatre to raise funds for the Merrimack Repertory Theatre.

Tickets are $10 ($35 for the four-part series), available in advance at the Merrimack Repertory Theater box office or at the door. The theater is accessible to the physically challenged.

Mr. Connolly is the 1967 winner of the "Fiddler of Dooney" competition. He emigrated to the Boston area in 1976 from his home in Killaloe, County Clare, and is known as one of the finest Irish fiddlers in the United States.

Mr. Connolly has appeared at the last three national folk festivals and performed in all three national tours of the "Masters of the Folk Violin" produced by the National Council for the Traditional Arts and at the Irish Folk Festival and Smithsonian's Festival of American Folklife, both in Washington, D.C.

His first solo album, "Notes from my Mind," was released in 1988 and he recently released a second recording, "Here and There."

Ms. Guilday began playing the Celtic or Irish harp at the age of 24 and studied in Ireland with harpists Noreen O'Donoghue and Maire n Chathasaigh. She won first prize in 1985 in the All-Ireland Celtic Harp competition at the Fleadh Cheoil in Listowel.

Ms. Goulding has been dancing since the age of 5, studying dance at the Scoil Rince Na N'og School of Dance in Boston and the Anthony Nolan School of Irish Dancing in Limerick, Ireland. She received the Overseas Award at the All-World Irish Dancing championship in Galway in 1984, 1987, 1988 and 1989. She was also the first-place winner of the 1984, 1987, 1988 and 1989 North American Irish dancing competition.

History exhibit is 100 years of health, fitness and sports

Aerobics, exercise machinery and "health" foods are not inventions of the late 20th century as many people may think.

On the contrary, 19th-century Americans, striving to attain their vision of the ideal body, also employed these methods as well as many others, some familiar and some outlandish in the eyes of health-conscious people today.

The Andover Historical Society's upcoming exhibit, "In Pursuit of the Perfect Body: 1850-1950," will explore Americans' preoccupation with health, fitness and sports over a 100-year period and their changing goals and expectations.

The society's exhibits and research committees, guided by Director/Curator Charlotte Smith, are hard at work digging up general and Andover-specific information and identifying objects and images to display. They would welcome the assistance of the community.

If you have any 19th or early 20th century athletic clothing or equipment (especially wooden golf clubs or a tennis racket), medical equipment, photographs of sports teams or activities, books on sports, health or fitness, ads for "health" foods or cure-alls, newspaper clippings or any other such items to lend for the exhibit, call the society at 475-2236 or a committee member as soon as possible.

AIDS group set

The Greater Lawrence AIDS Task Force (soon to merge with local groups to become the AIDS Alliance of Greater Lawrence) identified the need for trained persons in the Merrimack Valley who could train others about AIDS.

The group is sponsoring a two-day workshop Saturday and Sunday, March 31 and April 1.

Louise Rice, health provider educator for the AIDS Action Committee, will present this series. Funding has been provided by the Merrimack Valley Area Health Education Center.

The series are held at the Days Hotel, formerly the Koala Inn, on River Road. Registration is limited to 20 participants. The $30 fee covers the cost of materials and refreshments.

For further information, call the Family Service Association of Greater Lawrence.

Members of the exhibits and research committees include Robin Sung, Margaret Roberts, Dorothy Taverner, Norma Gammon, Priscilla Alden, Karen Herman, Barbara Alden and Cal Lynch. The society is particularly interested in learning more about athletic teams and clubs sponsored by the town or local companies.

The exhibit will open Thursday, April 26, with a reception from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and remain on view through mid-October.

Women, Negotiations & Divorce

Most property and custody settlements are reached through negotiations rather than litigation. Negotiations can be difficult when a marriage has broken down and feelings have been hurt. You may fear that you will be overpowered in this process by both your husband and your attorney, and be coerced into accepting a settlement which does not meet your needs. The advice of an attorney both knowledgeable in family law and sensitive to your fears and wishes can help you assert your rights and negotiate a fair settlement. Contact Judith L. Nathanson, whose practice is limited to representing women in family law matters.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago — March 1890

The Woman's Suffrage Club, not being fully satisfied with the candidates nominated for school committee at the citizens caucus, propose to have a ticket of their own. At a meeting of the club, held last Wednesday evening, the following ticket was settled upon. It is to be called the Independent Citizens Ticket, and will be distributed at the polls for the benefit of all others who may wish to use it.

The members of steamer company No. 1 held their annual sleigh ride last Friday evening. The start was made from the engine house at eight o'clock, the first place visited was the Eben Sutton engine house of North Andover. Here the fire ladies were heartily welcomed by the members of the North Andover company. After a thorough inspection of the house and apparatus, the boys started for Lawrence to visit their friends among the firemen.

75 Years Ago — March 1915

The longest and largest attended town meeting of Andover's history adjourned its session March 1st at seven o'clock after five hours of almost continuous debate, both on the school question and also on the appropriation for construction in the water department. The other articles passed without much comment or were voted indefinitely postponed.

50 Years Ago — March 1940

Definite action was taken on many articles by the Taxpayers' Association directors at a meeting last night, with a large number of items being disapproved, most of them in the belief that they should be referred to one of the town departments.

Water extensions and road work articles were mostly disapproved, it being felt that these should be taken care of by the Board of Public Works if that board feels that these projects are the most necessary.

J. Augustus Remington reported on the ice skating article seeking $500 and on the basis of his report of what had been done the past year under a similar appropriation, it was approved. However, the playground bleacher article asking for $1500 was disapproved.

One of the quietest campaigns in years will come to a close Monday when the annual town election will be held.

Many office-holders are unopposed, but there are four contests from which there hasn't emanated much noise by which might provide some surprises.

The most important in which there is a contest is that of selectman, where the present chairman, Howell F. Shepard, is opposed by P. LeRoy Wilson, proprietor of the Andover News Store. Mr. Shepard has been twice elected to the board, while last year Mr. Wilson opposed Selectman Roy E. Hardy.

25 Years Ago — March 1965

Town Meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in Memorial Auditorium at the Junior High School.

In preparation, attend the League of Women Voters warrant meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in the Central Auditorium.

Pricilla Abbot Chapter, DAR presented a flag to Junior Girl Scout Troop 235 in ceremonies at the Central School Gym. Mrs. Leo O'Connor, regent, and Mrs. Edwin F. Lewis, flag chairman, participated.

10 Years Ago — March 1980

The school committee Tuesday night gave plant engineer Al Hart the go-ahead to seek bids for the removal of asbestos from the ceiling of West Jr. High.

The Finance Committee will hold a hearing Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room at the Town House on all special articles in the warrant.

Any resident wishing to address the FinCom on any article appearing in the town meeting warrant may do so at the special hearing.

The selectmen have granted the preliminary approval of an application by Cressey-Dockham & Co., Inc., for an additional $500,000 in industrial revenue financing.

Reverend to lead tour of Britain

The Rev. Thomas Goldthwaite, pastor of the Andover Baptist Church, will lead a 12-day tour of England, Scotland and Wales, emphasizing the history of the English Reformation and sites relating to Protestant leaders such as John, Charles and Suzannah Wesley, John Knox, John Bunyan, William Tyndale and others.

The group will visit London, Canterbury, Bedford, York, Edinburgh and Chester and other British sites. Tours will include visits to the Tower of London, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, Wesley's Chapel and the Bunhill cemetery, all in London; a side trip to Canterbury Cathedral and Dover; a stop at the Bunyan Meeting House in Bedford and Coventry Cathedral; Yorkminster Harrogate and Durham Cathedral; Edinburgh, Scotland, with emphasis on the Knox legacy; Windemere and Chester, with a side trip into Wales.

Information about the tour, scheduled for May 21 through June 1, is available through the church, 7 Central St., 475-0166.

West Parish to award scholarship for education

Applications are being taken for the William Albert Trow Scholarship Fund of West Parish Church. Applicants must be 21 years old or younger and a resident of Andover.

Mr. Trow, a lifelong deacon of West Parish, had a deep concern for the education of young people, parishioners said. While preference will be given to members and those associated with West Parish Church, the fund is open to town residents.

Application forms may be picked up at the church office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Completed applications are due by April 4. All awards will be made by June 3.

David Fleming, 94

Lawrence dentist

Dr. David A. Fleming, 94, of Methuen died Thursday, March 1, at his home.

Dr. Fleming had been a dentist for more than 60 years at 30 Lawrence St. in Lawrence. He was also the school dentist for the city of Lawrence.

He was born in Lawrence and had lived in Methuen for 25 years.

Dr. Fleming served on the staffs of Bon Secours and Clover Hill hospitals. During World War I he served in the U.S. Army.

An alumnus of Hood Grammar School, he graduated from Lawrence High School in 1916. While at Lawrence High he was class president and captain of the football team. He attended Villanova University and graduated from Tufts University in 1922 with a degree in dentistry.

He attended St. Mary Church and formerly attended St. Laurence O'Toole Church until it closed.

He was the widower of Mary L. (Marley) Fleming, and members of his family include sons, John M. Fleming of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and David A. Fleming Jr. and Charles E. Fleming, both of Andover; grandchildren, Anne Fleming of Boston, Mary McCarthy and Robert E. Fleming, both of Michigan, David M. Fleming of Oregon, Jeffrey S. Fleming of Andover, Charles E. Fleming of California, Daniel B. Fleming of Boston and Kathryn M. Fleming of Andover; three great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Elizabeth Schwartz, 85

Daughter in Andover

Elizabeth Schwartz, 85, died Friday, March 2, at Lawrence General Hospital.

Born in New York, Mrs. Schwartz was a resident of Lawrence for over 70 years. She lived in Andover for the past three years.

Mrs. Schwartz was a member of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel of Andover, the Sisterhood of Tifereth Anshei Sfard of Lawrence, the Sisterhood of Congregation Anshei Shulim, and a life member of Hadassah.

She was the wife of the late Harry M. Schwartz. Members of her family include daughters, Phyllis White of North Andover and Selma Flieder of Andover; a sister, Lucy Frank of Philadelphia, Penn.; five grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Memorial observance was to be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Flieder, 23 Wildwood Road, through Wednesday evening.

Expressions of sympathy in her memory may be donated to Temple Emanuel in Andover.

Arrangements were by Schlossberg-Goldman-Fisher Memorial Chapel in Malden.

Veterans and their families entitled to burial benefits

Veterans and their spouses should know that one Department of Veterans Affairs benefit to which nearly all former armed services members are entitled is burial in a national cemetery.

VA's national cemetery system expects to provide burials to nearly 60,000 veterans and their family members this year. But a VA survey found that only about one-third of veterans are aware that they, their spouses and dependent children may be buried in a national cemetery.

Veterans, except those with dishonorable discharges, are entitled to burial in any of VA's national cemeteries that have space. Service members with exclusively Reserve or National Guard service may be interred in a national cemetery only if they die while on active duty for training.

Although families cannot reserve gravesites in a national cemetery, a veteran can make things easier for survivors by keeping his or her discharge certificate and other military service records accessible and verifying eligibility at any VA office.

Burial is also available to a veteran's widow or widower (if she or he has not remarried), unmarried children under age 21 and, under certain circumstances, unmarried adult children. Dependents do not have to be buried in the same cemetery as the veteran.

VA handles gravesite preparation and burial, furnishes a headstone or marker and a flag and provides perpetual care. Graveliners are furnished at no expense in some national cemeteries.

However, VA does not provide funeral arrangements, transportation or military honors, which often can be arranged by funeral directors through nearby military facilities or veterans' organizations.

When a veteran or dependent dies, documents supporting eligibility should be given to the funeral director, who will contact the national cemetery where burial is requested. Of VA's 113 national cemeteries, 66 have space available for the first casket burials of a family member. In the other 47 — considered "closed" — an eligible family member may be buried if a family member is already buried there. Most closed national cemeteries accept cremation burials.

Other burial benefits are available to veterans who may not choose national cemetery interment. VA will furnish a headstone or grave marker for a veteran's unmarked grave anywhere in the world and a memorial marker to recognize a veteran whose remains were not recovered or for other reasons were not buried. As an alternative, VA will reimburse up to $85 of the cost to purchase a marker privately. Dependents' graves may receive a government marker only in a national or state veterans' cemetery.

Veterans' families also may receive an American flag for covering a casket and a memorial certificate bearing the signature of the president, expressing the nation's recognition of the deceased veteran's service.

Information on VA burial benefits is available from most funeral directors, national cemetery offices and VA regional offices which are listed in the "U.S. Government" section of telephone directories.

Heart Association accepts donations

The local office of the American Heart Association says an excellent way to remember friends and relatives is with a memorial contribution.

Your contribution goes directly to the local community to help carry out long-established Heart Association programs of cardiovascular research, public and professional education and projects of community service. Over the past 40 years, educational and research programs of the American Heart Association have made significant impact on cardiovascular diseases such as hypertension, valvular disease due to rheumatic fever and other serious heart problems. However, heart disease remains the primary cause of death in the United States. A memorial gift in the name of a deceased friend or relative can go far to carry on the fight against diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

Make your contribution payable to the American Heart Association and send to the main office at 33 Fourth Ave., Needham Heights 02194.

Teens talking to teens

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Four Andover High peer counselors are volunteering to operate a new talk line at Delphi Counseling Center on Park Street. The center isn't releasing the seniors' names because employees there hope Andover students will use the talk line more frequently if complete anonymity is guaranteed, said Laura Goodman, a psychotherapist at Delphi.

"We aren't planning for this to be an emergency or advice hot line," said Ms. Goodman, who organized the pilot program with Andover High guidance counselors.

Though the talk line isn't expected to be an emergency or professional counseling hot line, the students answering the phones will have access to trained professionals at the center, said Ms. Goodman, who hold a master's degree in psychology.

The students also will be able to refer to a handbook of services for young people, the Teen Yellow pages. This book contains the addresses and phone numbers of professional services, said Ms. Goodman.

The pilot program will begin tomorrow, Friday, March 9, and will operate Fridays from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Andover students are invited to call 475-8690 and talk about subjects that interest or concern them.

"We hope kids will call when they just need someone to talk to," said Ms. Goodman.

To stimulate interest in the talk line, Delphi employees will set a question each week and they ask students to call to answer that question, or ask others. The Townsman will publish the question each week. Tomorrow's question is: What do you do when you are lonely?

Ms. Goodman said she hopes to reach students, especially latch-key kids who may not have anyone to turn to when they go home after school.

Ms. Goodman, a 1982 graduate of Andover High School, has remained active in the Andover schools. She has held sessions for elementary and middle school students who are about to enter either middle or high school classes. At those sessions, Ms. Goodman has incorporated high school students, who explained the transitions to the younger kids.

"Two of the most frequently asked questions were, 'How am I going to be treated by the upper-classmen' and, 'Are they going to try and get me lost?'"

"They were really concerned," she said.

"Sometimes kids feel more comfortable talking to another kid," said Ms. Goodman.

The four seniors aren't just any students, said Mike Wartman, a guidance counselor and director of the peer counseling program at the high school. Mr. Wartman recommended the seniors for the talk-line project.

"Most kids, at any age, have frustrations, stresses, problems and issues that bother them," said Mr. Wartman.

"In most cases the first person they turn to talk to is a friend. The peer counseling program helps high school students learn to be supportive friends."

All peer counselors at the high school are required to take a communications training class taught by the guidance counselors, said Mr. Wartman. In the course, the students learn about different facets of human relations and communication, he said.

Some of the issues explored in the courses are self esteem, depression, loneliness and anger, said Mr. Wartman. Peer counselors are also trained to develop their listening skills and to pay attention to non-verbal communication, he added.

After a student completes the course with a satisfactory grade, he or she is eligible to apply to become a peer counselor. From there the student must go through two interviews, with the guidance counseling staff and current student peer counselors.

If a student is chosen to become a peer counselor, he or she then participates in various group projects and retreats, during which skills are maintained and sharpened.

"We aren't trying to replace professional counselors or psychologists," said Mr. Wartman. "We just try to make students better listeners and make them available to listen when they are needed."

The talk line will run every Friday from 3 to 5:30 p.m., said Ms. Goodman. If it's successful, it could be expanded to twice weekly.

Boards: Barron's can expand

The Planning Board, Zoning Board of Appeals and Board of Selectmen this week all gave the necessary approvals for Barron's Country Store, on Lowell Street, to expand its retail space and install a bank automatic teller machine.

The major thrust of the site plan, which was approved subject to conditions, will stop the sale of gasoline at the location and remove the underground fuel storage tanks. A conservation easement given to the town will prevent gasoline from being sold at the site in the future.

Planning Board

The Planning Board sent Jose and Carlos Barcelos back to the drawing board to re-work the parking scheme that is part of their plan to add approximately 10,000 square feet of retail space to the Barcelos market building on Main Street. That re-worked plan should be back before the board when it meets again Tuesday, March 13.

The board also discussed the need to study the problems plaguing businesses downtown. That discussion is to be continued at this Tuesday's meeting.

Manager search is down to less than 12

The Board of Selectmen has begun initial interviews with candidates for the town manager position, according to Gail Ralston, chairwoman of the board.

Ms. Ralston said the original list of 102 candidates is now down to "under a dozen." She declined to be more specific about the number, but an applicant from out-of-town who dropped by the Townsman office last week said he'd been told he was "one of the final six."

The applicant, who declined to be interviewed, is town manager of a southern community of 12,000 residents. His community has a budget of just over $8 million. Andover's budget is $54 million.

Ms. Ralston told the Townsman that she expects the initial interviews will be finished in another couple of weeks. She said as soon as those initial interviews are completed, the selectmen will announce the names of their final choice.

The initial interviews are done privately but a second interview will be conducted in public, a procedure that Ms. Ralston said the selectmen see as following the Open Meeting Law.

For the round of initial interviews, Ms. Ralston said the town is paying for the airfare and the hotel bill of any out-of-town candidates. But she said for the second round of interviews, the town will pay "to wine and dine" the final candidates.

Kelly O'Neill lands part in Boston play

Kelly Eric O'Neill, the 10-year-old son of Paul and Susan O'Neill, of Argyle Street, was chosen to play Gauchroche in the Boston production of "Les Miserables."

Kelley was picked out of a field of a dozen or so boys his age. His father said Kelley has been walking on air since he was chosen last week. "He's wired," said Mr. O'Neill.

Kelley spent this week in Baltimore, Md., rehearsing with the cast that will come to Boston's Shubert Theatre starting March 16 and running through May 26.

Seminar helps with health costs

Home Care, Inc., a private duty nursing service and subsidiary of the Home Health Foundation of Andover, has announced a new community seminar, "Care, Cost and Coverage — How to be a savvy Health Care Consumer."

To schedule the seminar for a church or community group, contact Mary McKillop at Home Care, Inc. at 474-0206.

Teachers settle contract

rives next year.

Under the new contract, teachers will receive a 5.5 percent increase for the 1989-1990 school year, the first year of the contract. They will divide the increase for the second year in a split of 4 percent for the first half, and 3 percent for the last half. The third year will include a 6 percent increase.

Longevity provisions for the first year of the contract will be 1/2 of 1 percent for teachers with 15 or more years of service in the system and 3/4 of 1 percent for those with 20 or more years. For the second and third year of the contract the longevity increase is doubled for the 15-plus teachers, increased to 2 percent for the 20-24 year teachers and an added increase of 3 percent will be given to those in the system 25 years or longer.

Also included in the contract is an incentive program with money totaling almost $90,000 over the span of the contract for teachers with bachelor's degrees plus 30 credits, master's degrees plus 60 credits and doctorate degrees. The plan provides extra pay for teachers doing extra work beyond their regular contract demands, said Mrs. Tilghman.

"It's an innovative program that's healthy for the system. It allows additional money for additional work," she said.

The career-leave plan is an addition to two other retirement options. An agreement for combining it with two other retirement plans still has to be settled between both sides, but it allows teachers in the system for at least 15 years, and who are at least 55 years old, to work toward 30 paid-leave days to be used at the end of their Andover teaching careers.

Lisa Wilson, 14 Red Spring Road, signs a petition held by Helen Cronin, 20 Gavin Circle, at the Stevens Street post office. More than 750 signers supported the raise teachers sought and received Tuesday night.

"It's a good offer. I'm happy with the longevity plan," said John Givens, an English teacher at Doherty Middle School.

"I'm excited to go back to the classroom with all this off my mind," he said.

Mr. Givens said the threat of a teachers' strike kept him from completing plans on a student/teacher exchange project with Doherty's sister school in South Dakota. Now he will have more time to devote to the 12 Doherty students who will travel to the sister school in April.

Not all teachers were that excited with the contract. Craig Simpson, a social studies teacher at the high school, called the contract "adequate."

"I'm very relieved that it's settled. It's been a long, drawn-out process," he said.

Mr. Jankauskas said there are only minor provisions remaining to work out with the School Committee. He named stipends for some coaching and extra-curricular activities positions as unsettled provisions.

The teachers had worked since September without a contract and negotiations for the contract had been on going for a year.

Adviser says large financial firms can be myopic

On the 10th anniversary of Peek Financial Services, Robert L. Peek, founder of the Peek Financial Group, has some very definite opinions about the role of a financial services organization.

"A financial organization should express the needs of its clientele," Mr. Peek said. "When we began, the public was generally unfamiliar with the kinds of services provided by people in our profession. Since then, insurance agents, brokers, accountants and bankers have all entered the financial planning arena. Unfortunately, the public has become even more confused over what financial planners and investment advisers actually do."

Having spent the 1970s with several of the country's largest financial institutions, Mr. Peek says that he became concerned over how often large organizations make decisions based on what he considers to be myopic priorities.

"The in-house political climate makes it difficult for decision-makers to link the company's success to the long-term well-being of clients. Most time and energy is devoted to the development of marketing strategies and materials designed to enhance the near-term bottom line."

Robert L. Peek says a financial organization should recognize its clients' special needs.

This is why Mr. Peek feels that larger institutions have been unable to successfully establish their financial and investment planning operations.

"Small firms have been the victim of a different kind of dynamic," he said. "Since the early 1980s there has been a subtle pressure exerted on financial planners to conform to one way of doing things. While the International Association of Financial Planners has made a significant contribution as a promoter of financial planning, it is also guilty of trying to control the methods and content used by financial planners."

The Registry of Financial Planning Practitioners is a case in point, Mr. Peek says. "Advertised as a body of elite planners who are admitted only after passing a series of stringent criteria, it actually functions as a profit center for the parent organization and a mechanism used to control the nature of the financial planning process."

While this sounds innocent enough, Mr. Peek feels it has a "regressive" effect. "In the early 1980s our firm used to provide every client with a complete multi-page integrated financial plan. At the time, this was state of the art. However, we have found that a fully integrated plan is, for most people, an overly elaborate and expensive way of solving specific problems."

"Instead, it is more efficient to develop tools which are designed to isolate and target the specific concerns of a given client. The registry, on the other hand, commits members to an approach based on the way we were operating in the early 1980s."

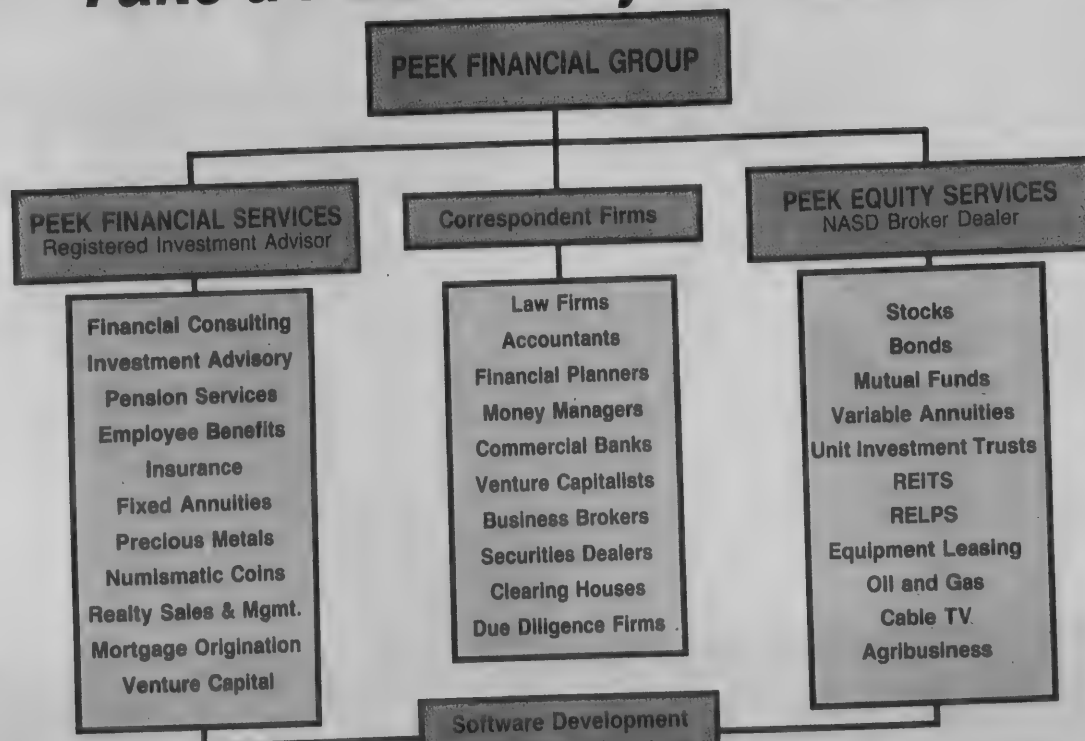

Financial planning is in its infancy and should not be prematurely limited to one way of doing things, according to Mr. Peek. "The 1990s present a wonderful challenge to the financial services industry. We have become a world economy, and information processing is at center stage. Those with the most timely access to important information will have the competitive edge."

Mr. Peek is not a stranger to this kind of challenge. In the 1980s he was selected by Alan Schmidt of Harvard University as an outstanding example of how to use computers for profit. In his book "Computing for Profits" (McMillan), he displayed Mr. Peek's financial modeling software. A student of mathematical models at Columbia University, Boston University and the University of California at Berkeley, Mr. Peek heads up a professional software development team that has created a proprietary financial planning software library. The library will become available to other financial planners in the fourth quarter of 1990. Mr. Peek is a chartered financial consultant, chartered life underwriter, registered investment adviser, municipal securities principal, general securities principal and general financial principal.

Peek Financial Services is located at the intersection of I-93 and Route 111 in Windham, N.H.

IRS offers medical tax tips

Here are some tax tips from the Internal Revenue Service.

Q: Where can I deduct nursing home and medical expenses?

A: Medical expenses are deducted on Schedule A, Form 1040. Figure expenses by completing lines 1 to 4 on Schedule A. Remember, medical expenses are only allowable as an itemized deduction to the extent they exceed 7.5 of your adjusted gross income.

Q: What medical expenses can be deducted?

A: Here are some medical expenses that can be deducted.

- Nursing homes: You may include in medical expenses the cost of medical care, including meals and lodging for yourself, spouse or dependents in a nursing home or home for the aged only if the main reason for being there is to get medical care.

- Retirement home: You may include in medical expenses a part of a life-care fee or "founder's fee" you pay either monthly or as a lump sum under an agreement with a retirement home. The part of the fee payment you include is the amount allocated to medical care.

- Nursing services: You may deduct services connected with caring for a patient's condition. Services need not be performed by a nurse as long as the services are of a kind generally performed by a nurse. This includes services connected with caring for the patient's condition such as giving medication or changing dressings as well as bathing and grooming of a patient.

However, certain expenses for household services or for the care of a qualifying individual incurred to allow you to work may qualify for the child dependent care credit. See Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit," for further information.

Q: Besides nursing care what other medical expenses are deductible?

A: They include capital improvements, necessary for medical reasons; false teeth; chiropractors; dental treatment; and eyeglasses/contact lenses.

For further information on medical expense deductions, see Publication 502, "Medical and Dental Expenses."

For further information on medical expenses, consult the following IRS publications: Publication 502, "Medical and Dental Expenses"; Publication 554, "Tax Information for Older Americans"; Publication 575, "Pensions"; Publication 721, "Civil Service Retirement Benefit"; Publication 524, "Credit for the Elderly or for the Permanently and Total Disabled"; Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit and Employment Taxes for Household Employees"; or Publication 926, "Employment Taxes for Household Employers."

These publications can be ordered by phone and are free of charge. Call the forms/publication hotline toll free, 1-800-424-FORM.

After reading the publications, further questions can be answered by the tax information hotline, 1-800-424-1040.

Fixed Rate Equity Line of Credit

Right now Lawrence Savings Bank will lock in a fixed interest rate on the RATEPOWER equity line of credit. There are no application fees or closing costs. You can use RATEPOWER for home improvement, tuition expenses, a new car, bill consolidation, or for any worthwhile purpose.

Borrow up to $100,000 based on the available equity in your home and "lock in" your interest rate. This way, you'll know the rate is solid and not subject to monthly adjustments as with other banks. What's more, if you currently have installment loans or a variable rate equity line of credit with another bank, this may be the perfect time to consolidate those loans and know that your rate is guaranteed. We'll even do all the necessary work to pay off your other loans.

Depending upon your personal tax status, your RATEPOWER interest may be deductible. Remember, in 1990, interest on installment loans will only be 10% deductible, and 0% in 1991. Stop by or call any office to request more information or the RATEPOWER application and terms. At Lawrence Savings Bank you have everything going for you, because you have . . . RATE-POWER!

Local woman named to Fine Arts job

Alan Shestack, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, announced the appointment of Ann W. Caldwell as associate director for development and public affairs for the museum. This new post combines for the first time responsibility for development, publicity and membership.

Ms. Caldwell will join the staff April 2.

"We are fortunate," Mr. Shestack said, "to have found Ann Caldwell to fill this key post. She possesses an impressive combination of administrative skills and experience as a successful development officer."

Ms. Caldwell spent nearly a decade at Wheaton College where, as vice president for planning and resources, she was responsible for a variety of administrative areas as well as overseeing the college's recent successful Sesquicentennial Campaign.

Ann W. Caldwell

Prior to that she was associate secretary of Phillips Academy and associate director of the bicentennial campaign.

Ms. Caldwell has served on the National Task Force on Higher Education and the Public Interest for the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. She is a founding

Gillette lists record sales

Sales, profit from operations and net income of The Gillette Company, which has offices at 39 Burt Road, reached record levels for the year 1989 and fourth-quarter results were higher than those of the prior year, Colman M. Mockler Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, said.

Sales for 1989 were $2.82 billion, an increase of 7 percent from $3.58 billion in 1988. Profit from operations was $664.1 million, up 8 percent from $614 million a year earlier. Pretax income was $473.6 million, compared with $448.6 million in 1988, an increase of 6 percent. Net income of $284.7 million was up 6 percent from the $268.5 million reported in the same period last year. Earnings per common share of $2.70 compared with $2.45 a year earlier, an increase of 10 percent.

Net interest expense and net exchange losses were higher than the year earlier, while the effective tax rate declined.

Sales of Gillette North Atlantic were moderately higher for 1989 compared with the year earlier and operating profits were virtually unchanged. Gillette International/Diversified Operations sales were moderately higher and operating profits were well above the level of the year earlier.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, sales rose 9 percent to $1.05 billion, compared with $967.7 million in 1988. Profit from operations was $172 million, compared with $147.6 million in the prior year, an increase of 17 percent. Pretax income was $129.8 million, up 28 percent, compared with $101.5 million a year earlier. Net income of $79.4 million was up 29 percent from the $61.5 million reported in the same period last year. Earnings per common share in the fourth quarter were 68 cents, compared with 63 cents last year, an increase of 8 percent.

Net interest expense declined and net exchange losses were higher in the quarter than in the same period of the prior year.

Sales of Gillette North Atlantic were higher in the quarter while operating profits were slightly above the level of the year earlier. Gillette International/Diversified Operations sales were moderately above the prior year's fourth quarter and operating profits were sharply higher.

Saab 9000 is more than good looking

Occasionally, a car is introduced that represents something rare among automobiles: uncompromised balance.

The new Saab 9000 CD is just such a car — a classically proportioned luxury sedan capable of incredible performance and agility, but never at the expense of efficiency or comfort.

This is a driver's car with impressive reserves of power and dramatic road-holding ability that even a sports car purist would love. But it's also much more. The 9000 CD will carry five adults in pure large-car comfort. It was engineered to be the quietest, smoothest riding Saab ever built. The shape is highly aerodynamic, from the subtle sweep of the nose to the easily accessible trunk —

Andover Bank assets grow

Andover Bancorp Inc. recently announced its operating results for the fourth quarter and the year ended Dec. 31. Bancorp's assets at year end had grown to $689 million from $644 million at the end of 1988. The change in assets ratio is 14 percent.

A net loss of $2,466,000, or 58 cents per share, was reported for the fourth quarter of 1989, compared to net income of $1,955,000 or 41 cents per share in the fourth quarter of 1988. The net loss included net gains before the effect of taxes on the sales of securities and loans amounting to $123,000 in the fourth quarter of 1989, compared to net gains of $232,000 in the fourth quarter of 1988. The loss in the fourth quarter was due to an increase of $5.2 million in the provision for loan losses.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31 was $2,183,000, or 49 cents per share, compared to net income of $7,848,000, or $1.59 per share for the year 1988. Net income included net gains before the effect of taxes on securities and loan sales amounting to $1,207,000 for 1989, compared to $1,557,000 for 1988.

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED THE TAX IMPLICATIONS OF YOUR RETIREMENT PLAN DISTRIBUTION?

Our brochure will walk you through your options.
Remember, you only have 60 days to decide how to reinvest your money before the IRS takes its cut.

Unless you're a tax expert, chances are you never thought about the tax consequences of a "lump sum" distribution from your pension, profit-sharing, 401 (k) and stock option plan or your tax-sheltered annuity.

The fact is, there are several options available to you and if you're about to retire or change jobs, this may be a good time to start thinking about your options...and how you can continue to defer taxes until your later years. How you reinvest your money may determine how much you will keep for yourself.

There are various ways in which you can treat your distribution. Which option you choose is no doubt a complicated decision and you must carefully consider all your alternatives. And while we advise you to discuss the matter with your tax advisor, Andover Bank is happy to provide you with free valuable information.

Complete and return the attached coupon today and Andover Bank will mail you a free brochure that will tell you how to defer taxes on your distribution.

What could compare to the combination of features that defines this elegant Saab? Saab's powerful 16-valve turbo engine has been combined with anti-lock brakes and tough roll-cage construction, besides its classic styling.

Saab is more than good looks

one of the largest found on any imported sedan sold in America.

The 9000 CD is also sublimely fast. Powered by Saab's 16-horsepower turbo-charged and intercooled 16-valve engine, it offers breathtaking acceleration and the potential not only to exceed 130 mph, but to cruise at such speeds without complaint literally for days on end.

That sort of inspired capability makes the 9000 CD exceptionally competent and safe at highway speeds. Then to assist you in returning to a stop without unnecessary drama, a sophisticated anti-lock brake system is standard equipment.

The list of other standard equipment is extensive. It includes Saab's automatic climate control system and 80-watt AM/FM stereo/cassette, with seven-band graphic equalizer/spectrum analyzer, a trip computer, power windows and central locking with integrated anti-theft alarm system.

A supplemental restraint system with driver's-side air bag is standard equipment.

Also new for 1990 are the headlight washer and wipers.

Performance has been enhanced with the addition of Saab's direct ignition system.

The 9000 CD: proven Saab performance has just taken on a classic new look.

It is available at Central Saab, 265 Lowell St., Lawrence.

Audi introduces sedan

Audi of America Inc. recently introduced its engineering showcase, the 1990 Audi V8 Quattro, the first all-wheel-drive Audi powered by a V8 engine. The new luxury sports sedan marks Audi's entry into the highest level of the international car market.

While meeting the traditional criteria for luxury class vehicles in terms of performance, comfort and quality, the Audi V8 Quattro expands the concept with a 32-valve engine and sophisticated electronic management of both the engine and transmission.

Driving the new Audi is a pleasure. A four-speed automatic ZF® transmission comes with a lock-up torque converter, electronic shifting control and three settings.

The settings let the driver instantly decide which gear is best suited for current driving conditions and provide smooth shift operation.

The transmission is complement to a light and compact V8 engine. The engine block weighs just 62 pounds and utilizes connecting rods specifically designed to allow the engine block length to be reduced to approximately 16 inches, making it the shortest available V8 engine in its displacement class.

The V8 Quattro showcases the newest stage of Quattro development: the merging of a 32-valve, V8 engine, automatic transmission and all-wheel-drive technology.

And you can find it all at Park Audi, Andover's exclusive Audi dealer, 222 Lowell St., Lawrence. Or call 686-9743.

Audi stands behind its cars

The 1990 Audi V8 Quattro, like all Audi models, is covered by the "Audi Advantage," a risk-free ownership experience that includes:

- Three-year/50,000-mile new vehicle limited warranty;
- Ten-year limited warranty against corrosion perforation;
- Maintenance protection, which for three years or 50,000 miles covers all costs for manufacturer-required services, plus many normal wear items, excluding damage, negligence, soft-trim items and tires; and
- Roadside assistance, a three-year membership in the U.S. Auto Club, Motoring Division Inc.

Thank you, Mike and Scott

Editor, Townsman:

Very little stirs me to consider writing letters to editors, but last week's letter denigrating the Andover High School hockey coaches compels me to take pen in hand.

With two sons in hockey (one playing on a PeeWee team for Andover and the other playing for Syracuse University), I feel somewhat qualified to judge the caliber of hockey coaches.

My oldest son, Rob, now a sophomore at Syracuse, has played on hockey teams since he was 5. He considers himself very fortunate to have had the opportunity to play for Mike Murnane during the spring and summer seasons of both 1986 and 1987. Considering the number of teams and coaches he has played for during the past 14 years, there can be no

After reading last week's comments, it became necessary for me to publicly state that we feel very strongly that much to offer the players and instead of being criticized, should be getting as much support as they possibly can for their efforts.

Andover High School hockey can only be enhanced by the

Town Meeting: Be there

Special Town Meeting is Monday, March 12, 7 p.m. (not 7:30) at the Collins Center, Shawsheen Road.

Mark that on your calendar. It's important. It's your money, your town, your schools, so be there.

Although there are only four articles on the warrant, officials expect the meeting to be controversial. That's why they moved the meeting to the Collins Center, which holds 1,200 people.

The first article asks residents to approve the more than $1 million cut from the budget last summer in response to state aid reductions. Officials cut $600,000 from the town budget and $570,000 from the schools budget. The selectmen voted recently to recommend a yes vote on the first article, but residents who are pushing for the raise that the teachers seek are expected to make a move for those funds.

Finance Committee Chairwoman Joanne Marden has warned that if the town votes not to approve those cuts, they'll have to come from somewhere in the budget. And Mrs. Marden and Acting Town Manager Anthony Torrisi have warned that delaying those cuts will hit twice as hard next year.

Article two asks voters to accept an Equal Educational Opportunity Grant for the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical School.

Article three would allow quarterly tax billing starting in Fiscal Year 1991. Its purpose is to improve the flow of taxes. And article four would change the assessment date for property tax billing. Again, this article would benefit the town with a one-time bonus of six months' new growth assessments to be taxed in 1991.

Whatever you believe about the four articles, it is important to be at the Special Town Meeting to represent that point of view.

Have you seen my Chevy's hubcap?

Don Staruk

I need your help. I seem to have lost a hubcap from my 1979 Chevrolet Nova. The car looked bad enough with the large patches of unsanded, green body filler hanging from the rear wheel wells, but the naked right front wheel just doesn't cut it.

The hubcap was there just last week. It first fell off last Monday on the downhill turn from Shawsheen Road onto Stevens Street. I stopped, retrieved it and put it back on that time. But Tuesday night I noticed it was gone.

Where does one look for a hubcap? What makes a hubcap fall off?

Well, I started with the obvious. I went back to the same downhill turn onto Stevens Street where it had fallen off before. No luck.

So I decided the culprit must have been the potholes. You know, those potholes that you hit every day driving to and from work. When traffic allows you to slalom around them. Other times you just grit your teeth and ride them out.

Two of these zingers are on North Street just before River Road near Picwel Builders' new subdivision. Utilities must have been buried in the road last fall, the fill has settled, and now you feel like the captain of the Exxon Valdez every time you hit them going more than 15 miles per hour.

But I looked and my hubcap wasn't there.

A few weeks ago I noticed a pile of hubcaps accumulating across the street from my office, no doubt the result of a couple good-size bumps in North Main Street.

Someone had even taken the time to hang several of them from a front yard fence, in kind of a spring-in-New-England art show. But I looked and mine wasn't amongst them.

I headed further down North Main Street and worked my way

Smoking pot is not relevant this time

It would appear that the furor over Atty. Gen. James Shannon smoking marijuana while a student at Johns Hopkins University in the late 1960s has died down, if not disappeared completely. And, it's really as it should be.

The issue will probably reappear as the election gets closer and the campaigning gets more vigorous, with Mr. Shannon's opponent, Scott Harshbarger, attempting to use the issue to his advantage. But the fact that Mr. Shannon tried the stuff is a non-issue. There are two things to consider regarding his smoking pot and his admission of such use in the process of a television interview. One, of course, is the fact that the incident took place during the 1960s when all sorts of crazy things were happening, particularly among the student population.

Secondly, forgetting about the particular decade involved, college students are prone to trying most anything on a lark.

This is not a defense of Mr. Shannon out of admiration by any means. I can recall when he was serving this district as a congressman and I was in Washington at a National Newspaper Association conference. I went to Mr. Shannon's office with a name tag that designated that I was president of the Massachusetts Press Association and a director of the New England Press Association. His staff informed me that the congressman would be tied up for all three days and could not take a few minutes to even say hello.

Thus, this is far from a defense for the attorney general based on admiration.

He joins any number of people in public life who likewise have tried marijuana at one time or another.

School Committee deliberately misled the public

Editor, Townsman:

For the past few months I have been following the negotiations between the Andover teachers and the School Committee with a great deal of interest and concern. Before I go any further, I should say that I do not have any children, school-age or otherwise. I am, however, a product of the Andover school system, having attended both junior high and high school here. I should also say that I am not now nor have I ever been a teacher.

I guess this letter is not so much to the editor as it is an open letter to the people who live in town, especially parents. After reading all the articles and the letters that have appeared both in this paper and the Lawrence Eagle Tribune, as well as catching the School Committee's endless televised meetings that appear on the local cable channel, I think the School Committee has deliberately misled the people of Andover by exaggerating the teachers' salary demands. The time has come to set the record straight.

First of all, the teachers are not asking for 12 percent raise in pay. (I overheard this particular rumor being bandied about in my aerobics class). I'm not sure exactly how much they are asking for. I do know that in private industry the average annual cost-of-living raise (not to be confused with a merit raise) is 6 percent. I also know that the School Committee, in a move that, in my opinion was deliberately provocative, initially countered the teachers' demands with an offer of 4½ percent. I work in private industry and if anybody offered me an annual salary increase of only 4½ percent, I'd start looking for another job.

Secondly, the teachers have been working for seven months without a contract. The average teacher sees about 80 children a day and their day does not start at 8 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. They oversee extracurricular activities, they take work home at night and on the weekends, they stay late after school to provide extra help for those children who need it. They also don't get paid when the schools are closed for Christmas, February vacation, April vacation or summer vacation.

Another thing to consider is that the highest paid teachers in Andover make $10,000 a year less than their counterparts in equally affluent towns, such as Lexington or Concord. I know what some of you are thinking. You're reading this and saying to yourself, "Most of the teachers in Andover aren't worth the powder it would take to blow their noses. Why should they get paid more? Why just the other day..." and proceed to relate an anecdote concerning one of your kids or one of your friend's kids that proves just how obtuse and uncaring the Andover teachers are. Having come up through the school system here, I know that there are teachers who sit on their tenure. I had a math teacher at what was then West Junior High who would say, "I don't care if you learn or not. I get paid every Friday." You're right, there are teachers who don't care, but they are in the minority. You can't teach 80 children a day and not care, there are easier jobs in the world. Jobs that pay better. There are a lot of teachers in the Andover school system who care. The vast majority of them are professionals who are good at what they do; I know because I had a lot of them.

The bottom line here is that you get what you pay for. I work as a technical writer for a computer software company. I write computer manuals for a living. A lot of the writers I work with were public school teachers who left the profession because they couldn't support themselves and their families on a teacher's salary. If we are not willing to ante up and pay these people what they are worth, we are going to lose a lot of very good teachers to private industry. In fact, we already have, and the effects of that particular brain drain are already being seen. As a nation our illiteracy rate is higher than in some Third World countries; there are an alarming number of school children who can't even find the U.S. on a map (and don't think that's not true in Andover).

It is up to us to help our children. The federal government has already cut federal funds for education, with the promise of more cuts to come; we can't expect much help from them. The city of Lawrence may have to close their schools in April because the city has no more money. In Andover, where the average family income is $50,000 a year and the average credit card debt is $25,000 (which is more than a lot of the teachers who work here make), we can't cry poor. In order for us to compete with Japan in the future, our kids have to know how to read and write. If you can't spell, you can't make a computer work correctly. In order to keep the good teachers, we have to pay them enough so they can continue to do their jobs. It is our responsibility to see that our children, born and yet-to-be-born, are well educated. So, call your favorite member of the School Committee. Call Dr. Seifert. If we don't pay our teachers now, our children will pay later.

other and had best admit to same.

It very well could be that an old classmate decided to tell someone about Mr. Shannon trying marijuana or if he had been asked and denied using the stuff, he would be in more trouble. Fact of the matter would seem to be that he tried it, got it out of his system during collegiate life and that was it. It should have little to do with his serving in public life.

***
The Republican candidates for governor seem to be working at handing the Democrats another victory and retention of the corner office at the State House.

Battling among themselves might be all well and good as far as seeking the nomination is concerned, but the battle would appear to be too intense not to result in some harm coming to the eventual victor.

Currently, William Weld has indicated that should he fail to win the nomination to the GOP convention Saturday, he will take his gubernatorial bid to the people through the ballot process against either Steven Pierce or Paul W. Cronin of Andover.

Have you seen my Chevy's hubcap?

through the minefield in front of First Essex Bank on the way into the Shawsheen Plaza. Boy! Do those holes really get the dice on the rear view mirror flailing.

But my hubcap was not there either.

I checked back along Stevens Street and the rough stretch of road in front of the post office. But still no luck. I bet if mail trucks had hubcaps they'd lose a few there.

Finally, out of desperation, I went to check near the large pit that was in Elm Street up near Westwind Road. I haven't driven my Chevy by there in a couple of weeks, but I figured that hole was big enough to suck in hubcaps from all over town.

But the pit had been filled. And my hubcap wasn't there.

Hope of locating the missing cap is waning with every passing day. Some kid lolling down Chandler Road probably picked it up and winged it like a Frisbee off into the woods. Lord knows I've done that

This can only lead to ill-feeling among Republican supporters of the defeated candidates, thus paving the path for the eventual winning Democrat candidate. While there is a contest there, it does not seem as hot and heavy as the Republican contest and unity can be more easily accomplished among the Democrats.

This is the first time in many years that the Republicans have an excellent opportunity to capture the top office in the state, so it is highly recommended that they get their act together and exercise some unity of their own.

a few times. (That was before I became environmentally aware.)

But I haven't given up, and I would appreciate any help I can get.

My hubcap was silver, round and metal. It had a small, gold Chevy insignia in the middle of it.

If you think you've found it, you probably can find me slowly weaving along Beacon Street scanning the roadside. Or try the office. On second thought, just hang it on the nearest fence. I'll spot it.

It's not fair

Editor, Townsman:

Dear Concerned Citizens:

It's not fair that the teachers have no contract. I am starting to miss after-school activities because of it.

Most teachers in other towns have contracts. Why can't teachers in Andover's public schools?

Other jobs in Andover have contracts. Why can't the teachers have a contract? I hope they will get a contract soon.

We value your thoughts

The Andover Townsman invites residents to a forum Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. at the newspaper's offices, 89 North Main St.

Between 10 and 15 residents will be accepted on a first-come basis. The purpose of the evening is for Townsman employees to hear what the public wants from the paper.

The paper held a forum Feb. 22 and plans to hold others throughout the year.

Participants will be asked what they like and don't like about the paper and employees will ask for suggestions. The evening should last from an hour to an hour and a half. Call 475-1943 if you'd like to attend.

LETTERS

This is not a good time to be seeking a big raise

Editor, Townsman:

To date, all published letters to the editor have been in full support of the Andover teachers' demands. I find this interesting since, in my frequent conversations with other Andover residents, I have heard a recurrent ambivalence about the current contract negotiations.

First, I would like to point out that I am a product of the Andover school system and that I have always been satisfied with the education I received here. In addition, I respect and admire the many dedicated, hard-working and sensitive teachers in our schools. Also, as the daughter of a teacher, I am aware of and sympathize with the financial constraints and personal demands of the teaching profession. However, I believe that there are a few issues that have not been addressed in the negotiations nor in the media.

As I understand it, teachers believe that, as professionals, they should be paid at a level comparable to those professionals in the business sector. I, too, have often wondered why people in business often make so much more money than people who are shaping the future through our children. However, I have come to realize that professionals in business earn higher salaries because they experience an appreciable level of financial and career risk.

Business professionals are not guaranteed a lifelong position impervious to corporate, local, state and federal growth variances. This has become all too real to many Andover families recently. If teaching professionals want to achieve financial parity with business professionals, they will have to assume similar career uncertainties. In today's world teachers can not have it both ways — guaranteed job security and a professional pay scale.

The other major reaction I have heard from local residents is the feeling that our teachers do not seem to appreciate the state of the state and the state of the town at this time. In fact, they are asking for a sizable raise while many companies in the area have instituted hiring and salary freezes.

While townspeople think that our teachers should be paid more because of their high level of commitment and performance, these same people are struggling with increased property taxes, a threatened state tax increase and possible as well as actual job lay-offs, corporate downsizing and the coinciding emotional and financial pressures.

When Andover residents are worried about the immediate and long-term impact of current trends, it is difficult for them to be truly sympathetic with the teachers' demands. Unfortunately, now is not the time to compensate for history's failure to pay teachers.

One final observation: We have heard how "close" the town and the union are to an agreement. We need only to come up with $250,000. Yet, the town is financially strapped because of state cutbacks and increased local operating costs. Is the AEA willing to trade off anything in order to reach their major contract goals? Or, are they singlemindedly interested in increasing their salaries, benefits and teaching support (teachers' aides, in-service training, innovative programs, etc.) leaving the townspeople to make the necessary adjustments and sacrifices in other areas important to overall town management?

Teachers, please consider Andover residents' situation, too. We appreciate and need your abilities and efforts. But, our dollars, just like yours, can be stretched only so far before the town as a whole is adversely affected. These negotiations should be a team effort with all participants realizing and responding to one another's interests with sensitivity, understanding and long-term planning.

Law student attributes her success to good local schools

Editor, Townsman:

As a graduate of the Andover public school system, I feel obligated to add to the current debate surrounding public school teachers' salaries, the views of a member of a category of individuals who have not yet been heard from on this subject — the former students of the teachers who are now seeking settlement of their salary demands.

It is perhaps particularly appropriate that I do so at this time as I am presently completing my 20th year of formal education — my final year of what has been a successful law-school career. It is my belief that my success and any successes of my former Andover classmates must be attributed, in large part, to the quality of education, which we received while in the Andover school system.

It is the skills which are taught at the elementary and secondary school levels, skills such as reading comprehension, basic mathematics, creative writing and the ability to think intellectually, which form the basic foundation upon which a college and graduate school education is built.

Much can be built upon a solid foundation and over the years And-over's teachers have dedicated themselves to providing the students of this town with this, the most valuable asset they will ever possess, a quality education upon which to build their lives. Through their care and concern for their students, as well as through their dedication to this invaluable profession, they have been instrumental in creating one of the finest public school systems within the state of Massachusetts.

The Andover system has one of the lowest dropout rates, one of the highest percentages of seniors going on to four-year colleges and, in contrast to a national trend of declining SAT scores, an average combined SAT score which increases each year and is, indeed, one of the highest in the state.

It is time that they be recognized for their efforts and achievements. It is time for the government and the people of the town of Andover to reward their teachers with the equitable salaries which they are demanding, which they have earned and which they deserve.

AHS junior: We're 'spitting' on the Andover school system

Editor, Townsman:

The recent controversies between the Andover school teachers and the school board have been the focus of attention for many people in Andover and beyond.

Despite the paramount importance that this situation has created over the past few months, there have been few (if any) attempts to come to any significant conclusions as to why we cannot deal with this situation or realize the social implications thereof. This fact bothered me and forced me to give serious thought to the value of education and the ignorance of the masses.

Consider the following excerpt from Chief Seattle of the Squamish Tribe in 1854:

"Whatever befalls the earth befalls the sons of the earth. If men spit upon the ground, they spit upon themselves. . . All things are connected, like the blood that unites one family. All things are connected."

This simple statement can be seen as a metaphor for the current unsettlement in Andover. With the chastisement of the teachers of Andover, we have also chastised ourselves. By not investing sufficient monies into the education of Andover's youth, the citizens have declared that not only do they not care about the teachers' stability (a horrible statement in itself), but that the future of their own children is also a triviality.

However, by "spitting" upon Andover's educational system, many individuals in Andover have spat upon themselves and their own future.

This is because of the interconnectedness of all things.

The only way to deal with this problem is to look beyond the present and to try to understand what we are doing to our future. It is horrible to think that quality education could be lost because of the unwillingness to accept the value of money as being transitory in comparison with the eternal importance of learning.

Matt Waugh
Junior, Andover High School

Rep. Sue Tucker's message to teen-agers: Forget fake ID's

Editor, Townsman:

Students, if you have one of those fake ID cards, tear it up. Last year the legislature passed a strict new law which imposes an automatic one-year loss of your driver's license for using a fake ID to purchase alcohol or gain admittance to a club.

When the governor signed this into law, I tried to get "the word" out. However, I have spoken to a few very unhappy young people who didn't hear "the word" and now have no wheels and no way to get to work or school because they used a fake card.

Thousands of these ID's are in circulation and club and liquor store personnel are trained to recognize them. The courts are enforcing this new law. Think what it would mean to your life to be without a driver's license. . . then get rid of that ID.

Parents, please clip this and send it to your under-age college student before spring break. Thank you.

She, too, worries about Andover's downtown

Editor, Townsman:

I, too, would like to protest the recent decline of the Andover downtown area from a real town with essential services like the post office, hardware stores, affordable clothing stores and supermarkets to an attractive but rather useless place consisting mostly of banks, real estate offices and expensive boutiques and gift shops.

It is true that the decline of downtowns and the rise of malls accessible only to those with cars is a general American problem, not one unique to Andover, but I would hope that our exceptional town could manage to avoid following such an unfortunate trend.

These changes in our downtown are bad for everyone, since they mean the loss of a natural place to interact daily with people outside one's own family or close circle of friends, hastening the day when Andover is just a soulless, impersonal "suburb," rather than the real town many of us grew up in.

The changes are disastrous, however, for the considerable number of people living in central Andover who cannot drive for various reasons. Just obtaining food for the week will now be a major hassle, especially in the winter; and "Pete's," while helpful, is no substitute for a full grocery store. The shuttle bus is no help to people who work full time, since it doesn't run after working hours. Getting a taxi to come from Lawrence is expensive and takes forever.

Andover has some control over the fate of the downtown area. I know it is difficult for people who have always had cars to remember that some people must go without them, but the town decision-makers might try harder to do so. Some services, like the rabies clinics and now plastics/glass recycling, have been moved unnecessarily ly from the downtown area to West Andover. Even town meeting is now difficult for many to get to, so there is less input from people without cars.

The town could also try to ensure that what is left of downtown is accessible to all. This winter many older people have been afraid to walk around downtown at all for fear of falling and breaking a hip. Many businesses have not been clearing or sanding sidewalks adequately. The sidewalks in front of several vacant stores (and the old post office) have often not been cleared at all. The town should either spend the money to

Coaches are two of the best

Editor, Townsman:

I'd like to respond to a letter which appeared in last week's Townsman in which a parent of a player criticized Andover High School's hockey coaches.

I've played a lot of sports in my life and dealt with many coaches, some good and some bad. Coaches Murnane and Seero are two of the best. They are dedicated, hard working and fair.

Coaches have to make tough decisions about who plays and who doesn't. Coaches Murnane and Seero favor those players who give their best. Hard work is high on their lists of what is important. It's important not only to the team but to the individuals involved that they understand that they must give their best.

Sometimes when a coach believes that he is not getting 100 percent from an individual, he has to take action to try to get that person to try harder. Some players respond well and some don't.

The writer of last week's letter asked if you would want your children playing for coaches Murnane and Seero. I hope they are still coaching when I have children or, if they're not, I hope whoever does coach my children has the qualities these guys have.

clear the sidewalks or see to it that merchants do it properly. And now that the only supermarket will be in Shawsheen, how about plowing and sanding the sidewalks of Main Street between downtown and the Plaza next winter?

Perhaps nothing can be done about Barcelos now, but we need a new grocery store as soon as possible. The town might consider something like special zoning or perhaps tax incentives to attract such essential services to central Andover and keep them there. Surely we do not have to stand by helplessly and watch the town deteriorate.

It's as good as its teachers

Editor, Townsman:

The teacher contract negotiations have gone on far too long. Negotiations are seldom pleasant, but dragging out negotiations this long is damaging to one of the town's most valuable resources.

Our education system is as good as our teachers. A teacher uses all of his or her personal capability and enthusiasm to teach. A teacher has to be very sensitive to the pupils in order to find the key to each individual teaching moment. It's a job that takes patience, sensitivity and thorough dedication.

Whatever may be the strategy of the School Committee and its negotiators, it should not demean or demoralize our teachers. Teachers are too important to the development of our young people to be treated like an impersonal commodity.

Andover has attracted some of the best teachers from each graduating class as we have needed them. I wonder if the town will continue to do so if we establish a reputation of brinksmanship bargaining?

There is a difference between having qualified teachers and having qualified teachers whose hearts are in their jobs. I hope the School Committee continues to recognize that.

'It was a season of little peaks and valleys'

By Rick Harrison

It's been almost a week since the Andover High boys' basketball team was eliminated from the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament by an Everett High buzzsaw that played at its absolute peak.

The initial disappointment has faded, and reflections on the 14-8 season focus on a successful campaign in which "It was a season of little peaks and valleys," said Fazio. "We struggled early, starting out 4-5 (the record after a 57-56 loss to Billerica). But I think a lot of that can be attributed to the kids becoming accustomed to a new system."

"We wanted to play an up-tempo game, for the most part, with a lot of pressure defense. We also wanted to run

Dick Licare, and Everett (67-66).

The Warriors swept the season series with Chelmsford (88-54 and 64-45), avenged the loss to Billerica (67-62), nudged past a Dracut team (58-55) Fazio helped build into a tournament squad, and beat everyone in the league except Haverhill at least once.

"I think at the end of the regular season we were playing the best basketball of any team in the MVC (Haverhill was upset by Malden)," noted Fazio. "The kids never stopped working and we came into our own as a group."

"The tournament win over Lawrence showed we could do all the little things well. Everett is a great basketball team. They're 20-1 and we're the team that beat them — in their own gym. I look back on that victory and, regardless of whether or not Everett was in a fog that night, it says a lot for our kids' character."

"I'm most proud of the seniors and the leadership they displayed," continued Fazio. "Not just John Thompson, Chris Eggert and Steffan Tomlinson, the three starters, but Mike Kelley, Paul Lembo, Chris Foltz and Brett Cox. It's toughest on seniors to put in a new system and adapt to a different coach. But those seven guys stuck together and made it work. "I'm looking forward to the up and coming years. The program is off to a great start. It was a positive year and we're going to build on that."

The seven seniors mentioned above will be gone next year, but varsity underclassmen expected to return are Matt Perry, Sean Ryan, Brett Hammond, Jeff Hurley, Joe Iarrobino, Kevin Ring, John Bishop and Matt Grant.

"We won't be too big (tall) next year," said Fazio, "but there are some things we can do to offset that."

Although the Andover junior varsity didn't have a good record, Fazio was using that team more for development than won-loss percentage.

"There is some basketball ability in the sophomore class," he noted. "The biggest thing they lacked was a ballhandler, and that's because Sean (Ryan) was the point-guard from that group and I took him on the varsity. Those kids worked hard and Coach (Lowell) Canovitch did a fine job with them. The talent is there. It just has to be molded."

"The freshmen class (13-5 record) has some good athletes," said Fazio. "And it appears that most of the good eighth grade basketball players are staying in Andover."

"I honestly think if we'd played any team but Everett in the tournament we'd have gone places. But I'm really excited about the direction the program is taking."

"We played before packed houses the last three games (Everett twice and Lawrence). That shows me the interest is there and people are taking pride in Andover High basketball."

Tournament

The Golden Warriors used a 20-6 third-quarter explosion to end Lawrence High's season in the tourney's preliminary round, breaking open a close game (32-30 at half) and earning the dubious right to face Everett.

Boston College bound John Thompson, who led Andover scorers this winter with 330 points, continued his late-season heroics with 21 points on a variety of acrobatic baskets.

Steffan Tomlinson and Matt Perry added 10 points apiece, Tomlinson also playing his usual outstanding all-around floor game (rebounds, steals, assists, etc.) and Perry burying his 21st and 22nd three-pointers of the season.

Chris Eggert contributed nine points, Sean Ryan six, Joe Iarrobino two, Brett Hammond two, Brett Cox two and Paul Lembo two.

Lembo also joined Thompson in throwing a defensive blanket over Lawrence All-Conference player Rigo Nunez, who finished with eight points.

Everett came out in overdrive and nev-first-year Coach Dave Fazio was able to install his system and kept the Golden Warriors' longstanding winning tradition intact.

Andover finished third in the Large School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference with a 10-5 record, was runner-up in the Greater-Lawrence Christmas Festival, handed powerful Everett its only loss of the regular season, and advanced to the quarterfinal round of the tourney with a 64-51 victory over Lawrence preceding the 88-60 loss to Everett.

the motion offense and get everyone involved. We used nine players consistently the whole season.

"It was a different approach because in the past they walked the ball upcourt and played half-court man-to-man defense most of the time," said Fazio.

After the loss to Billerica Andover won nine of its next 10 games, with big victories during that stretch over tourney qualifiers Lowell (79-72), Fazio's alma mater Central Catholic (58-57) and his ex-coach

Young swimmer places second

Richard Sheldon, 8, of Cross Street receives the High Point Award at the New England 8 & Under swimming championships, held recently in Cape Elizabeth, Maine.

Richard Sheldon, 8, son of David and Diane Sheldon of Cross Street, competed in the New England 8 & Under swimming championships in Cape Elizabeth, Maine, recently.

More than 100 boys and girls representing 37 U.S. swimming teams throughout New England competed in the two-day event.

Richard scored 102 points to earn second place in the individual male high point awards. He swims with the Haverhill YMCA swim team, which placed fifth in the overall male team awards.

Richard also placed third in the 50-yard and 25-yard breaststroke; third in the 100-yard freestyle; fifth in the 25-yard butterfly and 50-yard backstroke; sixth in the 25-yard freestyle and 50-yard butterfly; seventh in the 25-yard backstroke and 50-yard freestyle.

'It was a season of little peaks and valleys'

"They took us right out of our game plan by flying out of the box so fast," said Fazio. "By the time we got their feet back on the ground we were behind by 10. We never got in the flow on couldn't control the tempo. We wanted to slow things down a little by throwing an extra pass, but we had problems with their press and I don't think they missed a shot early in the game."

"We were just out of whack from the beginning." The Crimson Tide led 17-4 midway through the first quarter, and used another 18-4 burst at the start of the second half to key the 88-60 romp.

Thompson made it 43 tournament points with 22 in this game, including a dozen free throws, while Matt Perry added 11 and Chris Eggert 10. Brett Hammond and Jeff Hurley had seven points each.

Following Thompson, who also averaged 11.1 rebounds per game, in the AHS point column were Matt Perry with 281, Chris Eggert 203, Steffan Tomlinson 178, Sean Ryan 108, Brett Hammond 99 and Jeff Hurley 91.

Perry had 22 three-pointers, Hurley 15, Ryan 13 and Eggert eight.

AHS girls' basketball: Making history

By Rick Harrison

Every game the Andover High girls' basketball team plays now becomes the most important one in the history of the program.

Last night's Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Sectional Tournament semifinal against Methuen had that significance attached to it, and if the Lady Warriors won Saturday afternoon's title game will supercede the semifinal.

The "first most important victory," however, was achieved in the North quarterfinals when Kara Slavin's shot with 13 seconds left boosted Andover past Merrimack Valley Conference champion Chelmsford 45-44.

That was a triumph of major proportions, the Lions entering as the tournament's No. 3 seed with a 19-1 record and two prior victories over Andover this season.

Monday night, following a pre-Methuen spaghetti party at the home of senior forward Dee-Dee Castignoli, AHS coach George Sullivan was still walking on air.

"Beating Chelmsford gave us a tremendous psychological boost entering the Methuen game," said the coach.

"What have we got to lose? We've already gone farther than any previous Andover (girls') team. We're still the underdog. The 11th seed that knocked off the No. 6 (Arlington) and No. 3 seeds.

The Lady Warriors fell behind 9-6 in the first quarter but, as Sullivan noted, "holding them to just nine points was a major accomplishment."

Chelmsford outscored AHS 14-6 in the second quarter to grab a commanding 23-12 halftime edge.

"We panicked in the second period. We stopped shooting, went cold from the floor and lost our confidence. But holding Chelmsford to 23 points in the half gave us hope."

Fouls hurt Andover in the first half. Nine were whistled against the locals and only one against Chelmsford. Andover didn't get to the free throw line once in the first two quarters.

"We were 0-for-15 from the floor in that quarter and finished the game 4-for-17 from the line," said Sullivan.

Things began to even out in the second half, however, and the winners finished with a sharp 11-of-14 from the stripe.

Sullivan read the troops the riot act at intermission, essentially admonishing them about playing scared and telling them to shoot the works in the second half.

"We started to move in the third period, going with some three-quarter and full-court pressure defense.

"I told the girls to take small pieces of the lead away, and before we knew it we were only down by four."

A 16-8 burst actually brought the Lady Warriors within three, 31-28, after three periods.

"Jodi Jangro took over offensively, both shooting and setting up her teammates," said Sullivan. "Nicole Ricci got tougher inside, Kim Daley was snagging the rebounds, and DeeDee (Castignoli) was totally frustrating Kathleen Gillis while holding her to seven points (just one field goal) for the game. Grace Perry was also contributing great hustling defense, creating turnovers by deflecting passes.

"Chelmsford suddenly became afraid of losing," said Sullivan.

"With 13 seconds left freshman point-guard Lindsay Sweeney got the ball in Kara Slavin's hands, and she became the 'go-to girl' by swishing the game-winning basket.

"We set up our defense for their final possession, Chelmsford called time out, and we switched our defense," explained Sullivan. "The only problem was, even though I diagrammed the change on the floor, the girls went out and lined up the same way.

"Chelmsford took the ball down the sidelines and I had visions of our one-point loss to Haverhill in the closing seconds. Jangro knocked the ball out of bounds, though, and on the in-bounds pass Kara Slavin stepped up and stole the ball."

The drama wasn't quite over, however.

Kara, thinking the game was over, spiked the ball. There were still two seconds left, however, and it wasn't until Nicole Ricci got a hand on the loose ball that victory was assured.

"It was a great win," repeated Sullivan. "It was hard in one way because our girls and the Chelmsford girls get along well, and Al Richards (Chelmsford coach) is a very good friend of mine.

"But the victory — we'll take it!"

Ricci led Andover scorers with 16 points, Jangro had 10, Slavin eight, Perry four, Castignoli three, Daley two and junior guard Liz Hanson two.

Last night's game against Methuen marked the fourth meeting of the season between the two familiar foes.

Methuen won the first two, edging Andover 45-44 regular season and 42-36 in the opening round of the Greater-Lawrence Christmas Festival.

Andover came from behind to shock the Rangers 45-39 in the regular-season wrapup for both teams.

Methuen also advanced with a mini-upset, edging past No. 2 seed Burlington 59-58 in the quarterfinals.

"Playing Methuen is a two-edged sword," said Sullivan. They're a physical team with plenty of players to be concerned about.

DCS plans gym exhibition

The Department of Community Services will hold its annual gymnastics exhibition Saturday, March 24, at the Andover High School gymnasium.

This event is open to all Andover students in grades one through five. Gymnasts' routines will not be judged; all gymnasts will receive a medal and certificate.

In addition to exhibiting, all fifth-grade participants will become assistant squad leaders, helping first- and second-graders.

Exhibition will begin at 9 a.m. for grades 1, 2 and 5; noon for grades 3 and 5. The order of events for each category will be posted at the high school the day of the event. The high school men's and women's teams will perform at the end of each meet.

The registration fee is $5. Registration forms and fees must be returned to physical education teachers or the DCS office by 4:30 p.m. Thursday, March 15. Late registrations will not be accepted.

Exhibitors must indicate their skill level on registration forms as follows: Level 1 - beginner (all grades); Level 2 - intermediate (all grades); Level 3 - advanced (grades 3-5 only).

If you have any questions or would like to be a spotter or squad leader, call the DCS at 470-3800, extension 280.

Faith Lutheran wins in senior basketball

By Rick Harrison

Microwave-hot Faith Lutheran highlighted an evening of close games by outscoring St. Augustine C 8-0 over the final two minutes, Todd Wilson's improbable over-the-head, back-to-the-basket swish with 0:08 left on the clock completing the comeback in an impressive 34-32 Andover Church Basketball League Senior Division victory at Andover High.

Fourth-quarter baskets by guards Sean Croteau, Tim Foley and a bucket from Peter Gigliotti halted a two-game losing skid for St. Augustine B, lifting that club to a tight 24-22 triumph over intra-church rival St. Augustine D.

Ballardvale United jumped out to a 6-0 first-period lead and then held on for the day's "easiest" win, a four-point 22-18 decision over St. Augustine A.

The schedule for the final three weeks of the season has been determined by the team's records over the first six games, and this Sunday play continues with St. Augustine C vs. St. Augustine A, undefeated St. Robert's vs. Faith Lutheran and St. Augustine B vs. St. Augustine D.

Although St. Robert's was idle Matt Wolcott and Todd Kobelski retained their 1-2 ranking in the individual scoring race, Wolcott the top Senior with 114 points and Kobelski second with 64.

Following in order are Matt Blake of SAC with 52 points, Mike Trombly of Ballardvale United with 48, Tim Foley (SAB) with 42 and Justin Connors (Lutheran) with 41.

Ballardvale, 22-18

Mike Trombly and Mike Mano tossed in 8 points apiece for BU, whose superior height was the key to victory over St. Augustine A.

SAA closed the early gap with some aggressive play, outscoring Ballardvale 18-16 the last three quarters after United took a 6-0 lead on buckets by Trombly, Mano and Aaryn Schmul.

Jon Germain and Scott Nickelson paced SAA with 4 points apiece while Ricky Crispo, Ernie Dascoli, Chris Rogers, Aaron Waxler and Eddie Seero notched single baskets.

St. Augustine B 24-22

Tim Foley (10) and Sean Croteau (8) combined for 18 points, while Tim Sullivan netted 4 and Peter Gigliotti

2, as SAB overcame a 7-0 first-quarter deficit to overhaul St. Augustine D.

St. Augustine B moved to within 10-8 at halftime, and took an 18-16 lead in the third period after Foley pumped through 6 points and Croteau added 4.

Dave Kelmer and Eric Pisick paced SAD with 8 points each, Ryan Lisiak had 4 including the two foul shots, and Chris Hoffman buried a basket.

Faith Lutheran 34-32

Lutheran captured its second consecutive close victory, and its third straight win overall, by rallying from that six-point (32-26) deficit in the final 120 seconds.

Todd Wilson's ill-advised but nonetheless game-winning blind shot enabled FL to escape, after St. Augustine C raced to an 18-12 halftime lead and carried a 26-20 advantage into the final quarter.

Erik Breiland scored 6 points and Justin Connors added 4 to spark the winners' 14-6 fourth-period charge.

Breiland finished with 10 points and Connors 8 for the game, while Glenn Wilson and Todd Wilson contributed 6 apiece, Scott Gray 2 and Greg Foltz 2.

Matt Blake tossed through 12 points and Chris Corcoran 10.

Dana Fritsch and Eric Marquis rounded out the offense with 8 and 2 points respectively.

The foul line was the difference, SAC holding a 14-13 edge in field goals while Lutheran hit 8-of-23 free throws to just 4-of-8 for St. Augustine C.

The Andover Hockey Shop is offering a special on Mitre soccer shoes and Brine shin pads package for $15.95. During the month of March, Andover Hockey is offering a 10% discount on all shoes in stock. They are well stocked with all equipment needed for spring and summer sports. Owner Leo Gravel is ready to assist the athlete in choosing appropriate equipment for his favorite sport. They carry the largest selection of hockey equipment in the Merrimack Valley year round. They have had eighteen years experience in skate sharpening and repair for both hockey and figure skates. They stock team uniforms, protective equipment and a large selection of skates (C.C.M., Bauer, Micron, Graff). Although hockey is their specialty, they have equipment and uniforms for soccer, lacrosse, football, basketball, baseball, softball and cheerleading. They carry soccer balls, pads, and the largest selection of shoes in the area. Lacrosse sticks are available. Baseball and softball uniforms may be purchased at Andover Hockey Shop. In addition to protective equipment, balls, wooded and aluminum bats (Worth, Easton, Rawlings) and thousands of gloves (Wilson, Cooper, Mizuno, Rawlings) and shoes are for sale. Andover Hockey Shop carries award jackets for all the teams in the area. They have two day service for personalized embroidery on jackets, sweaters and caps. They also sell trophies for leagues or individuals, accessories and equipment bags for all sports. Andover Hockey Shop is conveniently located at Shawsheen Square. They are open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Telephone: 475-7474. R.C. Bernal

Depot House of Pizza

This popular restaurant celebrated its twelfth anniversary at this interesting location in August. They are pleased to announce that in the near future their customers will be able to enjoy beer and wine with their meals.

Depot House of Pizza is well known for its pizzas and grinders of almost any combination one can imagine. There are fourteen pizza toppings to choose from to suit your individual taste. If you prefer something other than these popular selections, spaghetti, veal cutlet, salad and delicious specials are also available. Owner Ted Exarchos has added even more variety to the menu by offering French fried onions and potatoes, chicken dinners, chicken wings and chicken fingers (served with a sweet and sour sauce). The entire menu is also available for take-out.

Depot House of Pizza offers convenience as well as good food. A phone call ahead of time can have an order of pizza or any of the other delicious foods on their menu waiting for pickup or to eat on the premises by the time you arrive.

All dishes are homemade and made to order. Fresh dough is made daily for their pizzas, as are the sauces. Antipasto, tuna or Greek salads are a special treat.

Depot House of Pizza is conveniently located by the train depot and Dundee Park at 53 Essex Street, Andover. They are open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. To call ahead to order or for take-outs, call 475-0055.

Town's tax rate stays different for the two

limit, will be $10.40 per $1,000 for residential property and $12.93 per $1,000 for commercial and industrial property.

"That's where it seems to be going right now," Assessor William Krasinski said Tuesday.

Residential property accounts for roughly $2.2 billion of property in Andover. Commercial and industrial property accounts for about $1.06 billion.

If tax classification were at 100 percent, the tax rate for business and residential property would be the same. The difference represents the 15 percent rate shift that has been in place for four or five years.

The selectmen split on the issue, 3-2, and the spirited debate indicated a closer look will be given to classification next year.

Selectmen Gerald Silverman and Charles Wesson argued to keep the tax shift, while Chairwoman Gail Ralston and Selectman James Barenboim leaned toward reducing the amount of the shift.

Selectman William Downs, holding his opinion until last, cast the deciding vote to retain 15 percent shift. "At the present time, with revaluation coming next year, I can't see any change in the shift this year," Mr. Downs said.

The classification debate drew impassioned responses from some board members, especially Mr. Silverman, who became red in the face in making his argument for classification.

"This is the best debate we've had in the past seven years," Mr. Wesson said after the vote was taken.

Burden on business

When 100 percent valuation became law it raised residential property values more than those for commercial and industrial properties. The classification shift was a way to ease the burden on homeowners and return a percentage of that burden back to the business community.

While business was good, the shift wasn't a big issue. Now that businesses are suffering, the issue has heated up.

Attorney Gerald Cohen, president of the Andover Chamber of Commerce, told selectmen Monday night that the added burden was hurting both small and large businesses.

"Growth in this town is declining," Mr. Cohen said. "And the tax burden is one little piece of the problem."

Frans Berkhout, owner of Rembrandt's restaurant on Elm Street, complained about the high cost of doing business in Andover and said the tax shift isn't helping.

"The business here in Andover is not the greatest, as you know, and the downtown is having problems. I think it is unfair for the small business owner," Mr. Berkhout said.

Ed Smith, president of Brochway-Smith Company on Dascomb Road, told the board that his company pays for services it doesn't use.

No children come out of his plant to use the schools, he said, and although town officials were very helpful, his company paid extra to connect its business to the Tewksbury sewer system.

Paul Salafia, who owns buildings along Post Office Avenue, said the added burden translates to job losses and asked board members for consideration.

"Business does need a helping hand right now," Mr. Salafia said.

Enzo Fossella, owner of Enzo's of Andover clothing store on Main Street, said higher tax rates cost him even though he doesn't own the building in which his store is located. If the landlord has to pay more, the store owner has to pay more, according to Mr. Fossella.

"Whatever I pay will have to be passed down to the consumer," Mr. Fossella said. "That is the way business works."

Mr. Cohen listed a number of businesses that have chosen to locate in other towns, rather than Andover and blamed that, in part, on the tax rate. He mentioned BASF, which moved to Worcester, and other businesses that moved to Lawrence and Methuen.

Commercial growth in town has dropped 20 percent in each of the last two years, according to Mr. Cohen, and reducing the tax rate is one way to help turn that around, he said.

"You have to think about planning your business growth now for the next year or two," Mr. Cohen said. "The only real growth you can anticipate is in the commercial and industrial class."

Residents would suffer

Selectman Silverman was not convinced by the dollar figures and statistics quoted by Mr. Cohen or the other businesspeople, and didn't buy the arguments that they didn't benefit from the services in town or didn't have children in school.

"You have people that work and you have tenants who do have people in school," Mr. Silverman said.

He disputed that the tax rates were lower in Lawrence and Methuen and that those were reasons some businesses located in those towns instead of Andover. He said that he is concerned with the residents.

"Two thirds of the tax bills that are paid in the town of Andover are paid by residents," Mr. Silverman said. "I'm representing two-thirds of the people that are paying the bill and I'm not voting for any change."

Ms. Ralston had been a supporter of the 15 percent tax shift in the past, but said she would consider a rate reduction as a compromise with business and to encourage discussion on how to turn around a deteriorating situation downtown. She cited the loss of Barcelos grocery store later this month as the type of stores downtown cannot afford to lose.

"New business and old faithfuls cannot make up for the necessities" being lost downtown, Ms. Ralston said.

The chairwoman said she surveyed a number of elders this weekend who were willing to pay a little higher tax if it would help keep conveniences downtown.

Ralston proposed dropping the rate shift from 15 percent to 10 percent.

But Mr. Wesson disagreed with the implication that the reduction would help seniors.

"Because that's what you're doing is shifting the burden to them," Mr. Wesson said.

The decline in business is typical of business around the state and competition is the reason for Barcelos moving, not the tax rate, according to Mr. Wesson.

"In the long run, they made an economic decision," he said.

And the reason BASF moved to Worcester instead of Andover was a political one, Mr. Wesson said.

"I don't think this 15 percent tax shift keeps anyone out of Andover," Mr. Wesson said.

He justified the shift, saying that industrial growth involves additional expenses for water, sewer, lights and streets.

Mr. Barenboim countered that the 15 percent tax shift actually results in a 23.35 percent difference between residential and industrial property rates. And he said that most of that burden is being carried by taxpayers who can't even vote because many business owners are not residents.

"If you think that's fair I don't know where you are coming from," Mr. Barenboim said during an exchange with Mr. Silverman.

Andover Ski finishes third

The Massachusetts Division of the Buddy Werner League's trophy went to Prospect Hill with Andover finishing third Sunday, at Bradford Hill. The following skiers placed in the final race of the BWL season: 7 years old and under: Girls — Caitlin Grasso, sixth; Aynsle Accomando, seventh; Ashley Tisbert, ninth.

Boys — Daniel Bellequa, third; Michael Grieco, 10th.

8 and 9: Girls — Allison Skoglund, third; Jillian Dow, seventh; Kristie Schulman, eighth.

Boys — Aron Bellorado, second.

10 and 11: Girls — Jennifer Prudden, second; Hannah Pfeifle, fourth; Ashley Nowell, fifth.

Boys — Ryan Downey, third; Jason Bellorado, seventh.

12 and 13: Girls — Catherine Kendrick, sixth; Christine Durrant, ninth.

Boys — Steven Hosmer, third; Jamie Grieco, eighth.

14 and over: Girls — Jennifer Colangeli, second; Kerry Grieco, sixth.

Boys — Paul Durant, fourth.

This year's Zanni Award, given within each team for the single highest point scorer, was presented to Aron Bellorado. Skiing in the 8 and 9 group, his times are often competitive in the three older age divisions. An outstanding individual achiever, Aron displays a great sense of the team spirit of competitive skiing.

Three Doherty Middle School students recently won Boston Globe art awards. From left they are Andrew Hsu, son of John and Linda Hsu of 5 Orchard St.; Jeremy Burke, son of David Burke and Denise Ragan of 5 Morningside Drive; and Krickit DeYoung, daughter of David and Barbara DeYoung of 25 Belknap Drive.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Baystate Electronics

Baystate Electronics has recently moved from Cottage Place in Tewksbury to their present location across from the TEW-MAC Airport for the convenience of their customers and to allow space for this growing business. President Dave Knight has over ten years experience in the profession, in sales and service of video equipment. Erin Knight is the sales manager.

The Knights, along with their highly skilled factory trained technicians, are capable of repairing anything electronic, including all audio and video equipment, all makes and models of V.C.R.'s, stereos, cameras, film strip projectors, camcorders, cassette recorders, Nintendos and CD players.

As part of the Baystate Electronics service they educate the customer on the proper maintenance of the equipment to save trouble and future expenses.

In addition to the homeowners' electronic equipment, Baystate Electronics services businesses, schools and cable companies. They include Wang, Apollo, the Tewksbury School Department, Lowell Cable T.V., the University of Lowell, and Tewksbury Town Hall among their satisfied customers.

All repairs are done quickly and efficiently on the premises. Their work is fully guaranteed for ninety days. Customers receive free estimates and affordable prices. Free pick up and delivery is offered to the Tewksbury area, senior citizens and the handicapped. Senior citizens also receive a discount.

Baystate Electronics is located at 1875 Main Street, Tewksbury. Hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. Telephone: (508) 851-3012. R.C. Bernal mit it. He said, "If you're going to get out of control I'm going to have to call downtown."

Meter man: The one you love to hate

Mr. Prochniak admits that he "snatched" the ticket from Mr. Cantone.

"That was probably wrong of me. I probably am out of control. I'll never go downtown again to buy a package of gum — $15.45 for a package of gum.

"I've lived here 16 years. This isn't Boston," Mr. Prochniak says. "That little three-wheel guy takes too much joy in his job."

The "little three-wheel guy" is probably the most hated man in town. And though he denies taking any joy in writing tickets, he performs his duty with diligence.

"He double parked," Mr. Cantone says of Mr. Prochniak. "I was writing the ticket when he came out and he expected me not to give it to him.

"Once my pen hits the paper I can't stop. What am I supposed to do? You want to get a ticket voided, you ask for a hearing."

Mr. Prochniak's "snatching" the ticket isn't the worst thing that has happened to Mr. Cantone in the more than two years he's been patrolling the downtown streets for the police department.

"When I first came on, I had written somebody a ticket for double parking. He ran out of the store and I handed him the ticket and he pushed me into oncoming traffic," the supervisor says.

"I've had people actually stop traffic while they've yelled at me," Mr. Cantone says.

Warm up the chalk

The traffic supervisor's day starts about 9 when, armed with his chalk stick, he heads toward Main Street. Most days he drives the three-wheeled traffic cart he calls "the buggy." Other days he walks.

He begins marking tires in front of Macartney's, swiping the end of the stick behind the rear wheel on each car he passes all the way to Locke Street. He makes a note of the time at every block, then crosses the street and starts back up the other side.

"The people who are shopping here, they're here for an hour, hour-and-a-half, and they're gone," the supervisor says.

Most of the cars in the metered and posted spots are those of store owners and employees, according to Mr. Cantone.

"That little three-wheel guy takes too much joy in his job."

Stephen Prochniak

"There are many people that get ticketed here every day and find it affordable," he says.

Nobody likes me

Mr. Cantone doesn't go into the stores for a break. Instead he either goes back to the station or just stands out in front of Old Town Hall. He says most people shun him and wouldn't want him hanging around their stores.

"When I came on I had people I could call friends, I could say hello to. But as soon as I wrote them a ticket, that was it. I've lost friends because of this job," Mr. Cantone says.

"I like people, but what can you do?" he muses. "Some people think I get up in the morning, or live, to write tickets. That's not true."

At $5 for most violations, former Town Manager Kenneth Mahony once said that the town actually loses money every time a ticket gets written, according to Mr. Cantone.

"The town is not looking to write more tickets. I don't have a quota," Mr. Cantone says. "They don't want me hiding around corners."

Two or three times during the morning he waves to Richard Ford, a Department of Public Works employee who used to be the traffic supervisor.

"He was a well hated man and so am I, but it has nothing to do with personalities. It's a normal acquisition of the job," Mr. Cantone says.

"People don't like to get parking tickets. And understanding this, the assumption would be that I would hate them back and that's not true." Aspires to be a cop

Just after 9:30 he heads over to Elm Street and the Spa, the scene of yesterday's run-in with Mr. Prochniak. Then he's on to High Street where a school bus driver cuts a corner too close and breaks the tail light on a parked car.

He offers assistance, but explains that his duties are limited because he is not a police officer.

"I'm not sworn in. I can't arrest people," the supervisor says.

Does he want to be a cop?

"Yeah. I do," he says.

Before becoming the traffic enforcement officer, Mr. Cantone worked as an electronics technician at an Andover business, but after surviving several sets of layoffs, he decided to move on.

"I took the civil service test for police and I scored well," he says.

Last year he took an 18-week police training course that included medical training and he qualified as a reserve police officer.

"Right now, I'm an intermittent reserve police officer for the town of Methuen," he says.

He would like to be a policeman in Andover, but he lives in Methuen, and civil service regulations make it very difficult to get hired in a town where you're not a resident.

Tickets, etc.

Mr. Cantone writes an average 30 to 50 tickets a day, less on days when he has to empty the meters.

By 10 a.m., he's made his way down Central Street and through the Memorial Library parking lot where he writes a ticket for a 30-minute meter violation.

He admits there is a way to avoid getting a ticket from him.

"If somebody doesn't want to get a ticket, just leave a real mean dog in the front seat. I'm afraid of dogs," he says.

At 5-foot 5-inches tall, his stature and demeanor remind one of Corporal O'Reilly of MASH.

Besides writing tickets, Mr. Cantone also runs errands for the police department, picking up and delivering packages between the station and town offices, or stopping to pick up supplies for the station while he's downtown.

Another meter is in violation, but Mr. Cantone checks and sees that it's jammed.

"They park for free today," he says, explaining that a jammed meter is no reason for a ticket.

He writes a $15 ticket for a car parked too close to the intersection on the turn in front of the library.

At 11:17 Mr. Cantone is writing a ticket in the municipal lot near Olde Andover Village when a young woman arrives at the car. He hands her the ticket and gets no argument. Just then the door of the Lantern Brunch restaurant flies open.

Owner George Dukas sprints through the snow and slam dunks a quarter into the meter in front of his car, grabbing onto the meter to keep from falling on the ice. He's laughing, wearing no hat or jacket, as he heads back to his restaurant.

Do you do this everyday, he is asked?

"Yes," he laughs, and ducks inside.

The cold doesn't seem to bother Mr. Cantone. He's a runner and is training for the Boston Marathon. This job has been good for his training.

"The first month I took this job I lost 10 pounds just from walking everywhere," he says.

Today, he's 75 pounds lighter than the day he took the job, but at 5-foot, 5-inches and 175 pounds, he still feels heavy.

At noon, he retraces his route from earlier this morning in the two-hour parking spaces along Main Street.

Every car with the yellow chalk mark on the wheel gets a violation notice that will cost $5. Mr. Cantone recognizes cars as he goes.

"Every day," he says about a black Nissan that is a regular violator. "Every other day," he says writing up a red Toyota.

At 12:03 he heads down Punchard, tagging a brown Oldsmobile Delta 88, then a gray Honda Accord and, eight tickets later, he's back on Main Street.

It's getting near lunch time and nobody has even yelled at the little three-wheeled man today, much less assaulted him.

"Yesterday's was the roughest in a while. That guy who called the paper, he was real good," the supervisor says, shaking his head.

But what about today? He's given directions to two motorists. And let an obviously handicapped man park in an illegal spot.

How could this be the most hated man in town?

He's reported two incidents concerning public safety and helped report an accident.

Is this the right guy?

True, he did wave on one double-parker, but she only sneered at him. And if she swore, it wasn't loud enough to hear.

He's waved to several people. And many wave back, honk and even call out greetings to the little three-wheeled man.

Nobody throws anything. Nobody even yells at him.

How disappointing.

But, there will be other days.

Five seek seat on School Committee

in Andover five years. She and her husband, Don, have two children, a 3-year-old son and a 5-year-old daughter, the latter who will enter kindergarten at Shawsheen next year.

Mrs. Silberstein said she has been interested in running for School Committee for some time, but didn't feel the time was right until now.

"I feel it is important to get involved. Children are our biggest asset," Mrs. Silberstein said.

Mr. Mendoza, Andover's postmaster and the current president of Andover High School's parent teacher organization, has lived in Andover five years. He and his wife, Zoraida, live at 257 North Main St. They have two children, a daughter who is in her third year at the University of Massachusetts and a son who is in his first year at Andover High.

Mr. Mendoza, who has a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's degree in counseling and guidance, said a position on the School Committee would allow him to take a more active role in supporting education in Andover.

All five candidates will have to run on a write-in basis because they decided to run after the deadline for filing nomination papers. Therefore, their names will not appear on the ballot. The Townsman will run a story next week on the details of a write-in vote.

Coaches clinic coming

Andover High School varsity baseball coach Dave Bettencourt, in cooperation with the Andover Little League, will run a coaches clinic Thursdays, March 15 and 22, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Doherty Middle School gym.

The clinic's aim is to teach the proper fundamentals of baseball, along with the prevention and care of baseball injuries.

The format will be a coach's or parent's participation clinic.

Physical therapist Michele Veilleux and Joe Armanette, physical therapist and athletic trainer, will cover the prevention and caring of injuries on March 15.

Following the 20-minute presentation, the fundamentals of throwing and fielding will be covered and drills reinforcing these fundamentals will be practiced by the coaches.

The March 22 program will cover hitting fundamentals and how to run a good practice.

Contact Dr. Tom Sharkey, president of the Andover Little League, Joe Iarrobino, vice president, or Mr. Bettencourt.

The clinic is free.

She placed in ski events

Andover resident Christine Colangeli, a senior at Hebron Academy in Hebron, Maine, placed sixth in the women's slalom and ninth in the giant slalom events at the New England Prep School Ski championships for Division II. She is the daughter of Barbara Colangeli.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AROUND

We know that dollar for dollar, detail for detail, our homes are the best value on the market today. We encourage you to shop around... check out the competition. Take notes and take their brochures. Then come shop and compare at Pride's Crossing and we will give you $10* for each brochure you bring along.

WHY? Because we have confidence in our homes. Our waterfront living boasts elegant marble foyers, privacy, convenience, and uncompromising quality. But don't take our word for it. Prove it to yourself as dozens of our ecstatic homeowners already have. One-level and townhome styles unbelievably priced from $125,000 to $168,000. Sales Center open daily from 10 to 6. Phone (508) 975-5500.

Directions: Conveniently located off Rt. 495 at exit 46 (in Methuen), left onto Rt. 110 (Merrimack St.). Take second right after Sunset Station onto Riverside St. which will turn into Riverview Blvd. to Pride's Crossing.

*Limited to the first 25 visitors per week. $50 maximum per family or group. Phone or visit sales center for details. Limited time offer.

FNMAE and VA approved.

Special Town Meeting is Monday at 7 p.m.

Mr. Doherty expects all four articles to pass.

"I don't see any problems for any of them," he said. "It looks like they're all routine and straight forward from where I'm sitting."

Article 1

The first article asks voters to approve cuts of $1,116,312 from the budget approved at Town Meeting last April. Those cuts were due to reductions in state aid announced last summer.

The proposed cuts include $600,745 from the town side of the budget and $570,000 from the school budget.

The total budget approved last spring was $55,218,568. The proposed revised budget would be $54,439,993. The school budget would be reduced from $21,491,052 to $20,921,052.

The town was already budgeted to spend up to the levy limit allowed by Proposition 2½ before the state cut local aid, so raising taxes to make up the more than $1 million loss is not an option.

The Board of Selectmen, the Finance Committee and the School Committee have recommended approval of this article.

Article 2

This article asks voters to accept an Equal Educational Opportunity Grant for the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School.

The Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee recommend approval.

Article 3

The third article would allow quarterly tax billing starting in fiscal 1991. The town currently bills taxes twice annually.

Approval of the article would improve the flow of tax dollars and help the town avoid having to borrow to meet its obligations between billing cycles.

The Board of Selectmen and the Finance committee recommend approval.

Article 4

The fourth article would change the assessment date for property tax billing purposes.

Approval would reduce the delay that can occur between construction of a new property and actual tax billing for the property's increased value.

The assessment date would change from Dec. 31, the end of the calendar year, to June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

The Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee recommend approval.

Paul Cronin formally launches his campaign

Andover resident Paul Cronin formally launched his campaign as a Republican candidate for governor at the Hampshire House in Boston Monday.

Mr. Cronin, a former selectman and congressman from Andover, said he joined the race because he's convinced neither of the party's two front runners, William F. Weld and Steven D. Pierce, can beat a Democrat in the fall.

The candidate also admitted he is a long shot for his party's nomination, but said he has been the underdog before.

The former congressman, who owns and operates a Lawrence-based manufacturing firm, is trailing the other two candidates in both fundraising and delegate support.

He needs to win 15 percent of the delegates at this Saturday's GOP convention in Boston just to qualify for the September primary ballot.

Gary Coon, Andover Town Committee chairman, was somewhat optimistic about Mr. Cronin's chances to get the Republican nomination if he can get past Saturday.

"I think if he gets his 15 percent, I think he's in pretty good shape," Mr. Coon said.

But winning 15 percent of the delegates Saturday is not going to be easy, according to the chairman.

"I'm not sure what's going to happen," Mr. Coon said. "He wants to get 15 percent on the first ballot. If he doesn't get it on the first ballot it's going to be tough."

Mr. Cronin's chances have improved in the last few weeks with all the negative press that the other two candidates have been receiving, according to Mr. Coon. But a little more time would probably help even more, the chairman added.

"He probably wishes he had another week or two," Mr. Coon said.

In making his announcement Monday, Mr. Cronin said he has a two-part restructuring plan for state and local government that would reduce property taxes by 50 percent without a negative effect on services, according to a newspaper report.

One part of the plan would redraw county lines and assign local, regional and state governments specific responsibilities. The second part of the plan would focus on cost efficient spending, according to the report.

'He probably wishes he had another week or two.'

Gary Coon

The 52-year-old businessman last held public office in 1974, when he lost his re-election bid for congress to Democrat Paul Tsongas.

Mr. Cronin is against laws restricting womens' rights to abortion, a step away from strict Republican party lines.

Mr. Cronin and the other two candidates will take part in a debate televised tonight, Thursday, on Channel 7 at 9.
